GNU LICENSE GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE

Version 2.0, February 1989

Copyright (C) 1989 Free Software Foundation, Inc. 51 Franklin St, Fifth Floor, Boston, MA 02110-1301, USA. Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute verbatim copies of this license document, provided that you change it not at all.

This is the first released version of the Lesser GPL. It also counts as the successor of the GNU Library Public License, version 2, hence the version number '2.0'.

Preamble

The licenses for most software are designed to make sure you have the right to control where the software is distributed. This license is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and reuse free software - to make sure the software is free for all its users.

This license, the Lesser General Public License, applies to some software. It is intended for use with software that is not a major component of another program. It is more like the ordinary General Public License, but it allows you to mix it with other software.

When we speak of free software, we mean software that is free of all copyright restrictions and that you can redistribute and modify without restriction. This license, the Lesser General Public License, applies to some software. It is intended for use with software that is not a major component of another program. It is more like the ordinary General Public License, but it allows you to mix it with other software.

To protect your rights, we need to make restrictions that forbid distributors to deny you these rights or to restrict them in any way. These prohibitions are listed in the six numbered paragraphs. They also make sure that you receive the same rights if you redistribute copies of the library or if you modify it.

For example, if you distribute copies of the library, whether gratis or for a fee, you must give the recipients all the rights that we give you. You must make sure that they receive the same rights that you received from us. You must make sure that they can copy, modify and distribute copies of the library and that they are not subject to any restriction whatsoever that is not permitted by this license.

We protect your rights with a two-step method: (1) we copyright the library, and (2) we offer you this license, which gives you legal permission to copy, distribute and/or modify the library.

To protect your distributor, we want to make it very clear that there is no warranty for the free library. Also, if the library is modified by someone else and passed on, the version that you should expect to receive should be marked as modified. You should always mark modified versions of the library as such.

Finally, software patents pose a constant threat to the existence of free software. We wish to make sure that a company cannot effectively restrict the users of a free program by obtaining a restrictive license from a patent holder. Therefore, we insist that anyone who conveys the library must be licensed under the terms of this license.

Most GNU software, including some libraries, is covered by the ordinary GNU General Public License. This license, the Lesser General Public License, applies to some software. It is more like the ordinary General Public License, but it allows you to mix it with other software.

When a program is linked with a library, whether statically or using a shared library, the combination of the two is legally speaking a combined work, a derivative of the original library. The ordinary GNU General Public License requires that derivative work carry the same license. This license, the Lesser General Public License, allows you to convey the combined work under a different license from the ordinary GNU General Public License, as long as you also convey the library under the terms of this license.

We call this license the "Lesser" General Public License because it does less to protect the user's freedom than the ordinary General Public License. It also provides other free software distributors of a non-Free program with certain freedoms. These distinctions are for the reason we use the ordinary GNU General Public License for many libraries. However, the Lesser License provides advantages to certain categories.

For example, on rare occasions, there may be a special need to protect the user's freedom from the claims of a patent holder. It becomes a fact that in order to allow this non-Free program to be used, the user must be able to use the library. In this case, there is little to be gained by linking the free library to the non-Free software, so we use the Lesser General Public License.

In other cases, permission to use a particular library in non-free programs enables a greater number of people to use a large body of free software. For example, permission to use the GNU C library in non-free programs enables many people to use the whole GNU operating system, as well as its variants, the GNU/Linux operating system.

Although the Lesser General Public License is a derivative of the ordinary GNU General Public License, it does ensure that the user of a program that is linked with the library has the freedom to distribute the program under a modified version of the library.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification follow. Pay close attention to the difference between a "work based on the library" and a "work that uses the library". The former contains code derived from the library, whereas the latter must only contain a reference to the library.

GNU LICENSE GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION 0. This License Agreement applies to any software library or other program which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder or other party that says that the program is licensed under the terms of this Lesser General Public License ("this License"). You must follow the terms of this license in all cases where it applies.

A "library" means a collection of software functions and/or data organized as an object file or conventionally linked into a dynamic shared object (which use some of these functions and data) in form executable.

The "library" here, refers to any such software library or work which has been distributed under these terms. A "work based on the library" means either the library or any derivative work under copyright law, whether that work is an extension or a modification of the library or whether it is linked with it in any way.

"Source code" for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For a library, this means the form that can be used to build the library, such as a source program, or intermediate files that result from the compilation and installation of the library.

Activities other than copying, distribution and modification are not covered by this license. They are outside its scope. The act of copying a program that uses the library in any way is not restricted, and neither is the act of distributing copies of the library. The distribution of the library is not restricted, and neither is the act of distributing copies of the library if the library is a part of a larger program that is not a library, or if the library is a part of a larger program that is a library, or if the library is a part of a larger program that is a library, or if the library is a part of a larger program that is a library.

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the library's complete source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy notice that you received the library in this form, and that you adhere to all the terms that refer to the library in this license document, in all cases where they apply to the library.

You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

2. You may modify your copy or copies of the library or any portion thereof to suit your needs and to publish under your own name or the name of a third party. You may charge a fee for this service; however, you must make available all the source code for all modified versions you create. Any new code you add must be released under the terms of this license document, in all cases where they apply to the library.

3. You may copy and distribute copies of the library's complete source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy notice that you received the library in this form, and that you adhere to all the terms that refer to the library in this license document, in all cases where they apply to the library.

4. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

5. You may modify your copy or copies of the library or any portion thereof to suit your needs and to publish under your own name or the name of a third party. You may charge a fee for this service; however, you must make available all the source code for all modified versions you create. Any new code you add must be released under the terms of this license document, in all cases where they apply to the library.

6. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

instead of to this License. (If a newer version than version 2 of the GNU General Public License has appeared, then you can specify that version instead of you wish.) Do not make any other change to Show this change is made in a given copy, it is irrevocable for that copy in the ordinary GNU General Public License applies to all subsequent copies and derivative works made from that copy.

This applies to users who wish to copy part of the code of the library into a program that is not a library.

4. You may copy and distribute the library (or a portion or derivative of it, under section 2), in object code or executable form under the terms of the GNU General Public License, as long as you comply with the complete corresponding author-readable source code, which must be distributed under the terms of sections 1 and 2 above as a single continuous block for each individual program.

If distribution of object code is made by offering access to copy from a designated physical location (such as a server), you must also make the distribution available under the terms of sections 1 and 2 above as a single continuous block for each individual program.

5. A program that contains no derivative of any portion of the library, but is designed to work with the library, may be compiled or linked in addition to an object code for the library, and therefore falls outside the scope of this License.

However, linking a work that uses the library with the library creates an executable that is a derivative of the library, and the executable is therefore covered by this License. Section 6 states terms for distribution of such executables.

When a work that uses the library is made from a header file that is part of the library, the object code for the work may be made without the source code for the library, but only if the object code for the work can be linked without the library, or if the work is a library, and the object code for the work is not linked with the library.

If such an object code uses only numerical parameters, data structure layouts and accessors, and small macros and small inline functions (no larger than 100 lines), users of the object code can rebuild the program from the source code, and a library is not needed. Sections 1 and 2 above do not apply to such an object code.

Distribution. If the work is a derivative of the library, you may distribute the object code for the work under the terms of section 6. Any executable containing that work also falls under section 6.

6. An executable that is covered by this License may also contain or be linked with material that is not covered by this License, provided that you clearly mark the material that is not covered by this License in the documentation or in a separate document that is distributed with the executable.

7. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the library (or any portion of it) in any form or by any means other than those permitted in writing under the terms of this License, unless you are authorized to do so by the copyright holder for the library. Any such sublicense must be under the terms of this License. Also, you must do all the above for the copy of this License. Also, you must do all the above for the copy of this License.

8. Accompany the work with the complete corresponding author-readable source code for the library, or a license that permits you to use the library with the complete author-readable source code, so that the user can view and change the contents of any portion of the library that they are not intended to be modified. You must also accompany the work with the complete corresponding author-readable source code for the library, or a license that permits you to use the library with the complete author-readable source code, so that the user can view and change the contents of any portion of the library that they are not intended to be modified.

9. If the library is a library that is part of the GNU system, you must accompany the work with the complete corresponding author-readable source code for the library, or a license that permits you to use the library with the complete author-readable source code, so that the user can view and change the contents of any portion of the library that they are not intended to be modified.

10. If the library is a library that is part of the GNU system, you must accompany the work with the complete corresponding author-readable source code for the library, or a license that permits you to use the library with the complete author-readable source code, so that the user can view and change the contents of any portion of the library that they are not intended to be modified.

11. Accompany the work with a written offer, valid for at least three years, to give the user the material specified in sections 8 and 9, for a charge no more than the cost of performing this distribution.

12. If distribution of the work is made by offering access to copy from a designated place, offer equivalent access to copy the above specified material from the same place.

13. Verify that the user has already received a copy of this material or that you have already sent this user a copy.

14. For an executable, the required form of the "work" that uses the library must be such that it can be modified to link with a copy of the library that is not covered by this License. The material to be distributed need not include anything that is required for the executable to run, unless it is necessary to ensure the executability of the work on the operating system on which the executable runs, unless that requirement itself accompanies the executable.

15. It may happen that this requirement contradicts the license restrictions of other proprietary libraries that are not normally accompanied by the operating system. Such a contradiction means you cannot use both the library together in an executable that you distribute.

16. You may place library facilities that are not covered by this License in a separate library together with your library facilities not covered by this License, and distribute such a combined library under the terms of this License. Your work must use the library and not the other library facilities in otherwise restricted, and provided that you do not change.

17. Accompany the combined library with a copy of the same work that uses the library, accompanied with any other library facilities. This must be distributed under the terms of the License above.

18. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the library (or any portion of it) in any form or by any means other than those permitted in writing under the terms of this License, unless you are authorized to do so by the copyright holder for the library. Any such sublicense must be under the terms of this License.

19. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the library (or any portion of it) in any form or by any means other than those permitted in writing under the terms of this License, unless you are authorized to do so by the copyright holder for the library. Any such sublicense must be under the terms of this License.

20. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the library (or any portion of it) in any form or by any means other than those permitted in writing under the terms of this License, unless you are authorized to do so by the copyright holder for the library. Any such sublicense must be under the terms of this License.

21. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the library (or any portion of it) in any form or by any means other than those permitted in writing under the terms of this License, unless you are authorized to do so by the copyright holder for the library. Any such sublicense must be under the terms of this License.

22. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the library (or any portion of it) in any form or by any means other than those permitted in writing under the terms of this License, unless you are authorized to do so by the copyright holder for the library. Any such sublicense must be under the terms of this License.

23. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the library (or any portion of it) in any form or by any means other than those permitted in writing under the terms of this License, unless you are authorized to do so by the copyright holder for the library. Any such sublicense must be under the terms of this License.

24. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the library (or any portion of it) in any form or by any means other than those permitted in writing under the terms of this License, unless you are authorized to do so by the copyright holder for the library. Any such sublicense must be under the terms of this License.

25. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the library (or any portion of it) in any form or by any means other than those permitted in writing under the terms of this License, unless you are authorized to do so by the copyright holder for the library. TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR USE, REPRODUCTION, AND DISTRIBUTION

1. Definitions.

"License" shall mean the terms and conditions for use, reproduction, and distribution as defined by Sections 1 through 4 of this document.

"Licensor" shall mean the copyright owner or entity authorized by the copyright owner that is granting the License.

"Legal Entity" shall mean the owner of the writing, whether it be an individual or a legal entity, including its successors, assigns, heirs, and other entities that control, are controlled by, or are under common control with that entity, for the purposes of this definition, control includes (i) ownership, (ii) possession, (iii) the right to direct or manage the operation of such entity, whether by contract or otherwise, or (iii) beneficial ownership or similar arrangement.

"You" (or "Your") shall mean any individual or Legal Entity exercising permissions granted by this License.

"Source" form shall mean the preferred form for making modifications, including but not limited to software source code, documentation source, and configuration files.

"Object" form shall mean any form resulting from mechanical transformation of a Source form, including but not limited to compiled object code, generated documentation, and comparable to other media types.

"Work" shall mean the work of authorship, whether in Source or Object form, and includes any materials, data, and information, whether in any medium, that is used in connection with the Work, including but not limited to (i) the Work's packaging, (ii) installation instructions, (iii) promotional materials, and (iv) any other materials that accompany the Work.

"Derivative Works" shall mean any work, whether in Source or Object form, that is based on (or derived from) the Work for which the copyright owner has granted permissions under this License, but which does not include materials that are separable from the Work or for which separate permissions have been granted by the copyright owner.

"Contributions" shall mean any work of authorship, including the Source form, and any modifications to any Source form, that is incorporated into or derived from any Source form for which the copyright owner has granted permissions under this License, including any materials, data, and information, whether in any medium, that is used in connection with the Work. For the purposes of this definition, "materials, data, and information" includes but is not limited to (i) design documentation, (ii) user interface elements, (iii) code comments, (iv) data files, (v) configuration files, (vi) documentation, (vii) test cases, and (viii) any other materials that accompany the Work.

"Copyleft" shall mean any work of authorship, including the Source form, and any modifications to any Source form, that is based on (or derived from) any Source form for which the copyright owner has granted permissions under this License, including any materials, data, and information, whether in any medium, that is used in connection with the Work.

"Copyright" shall mean the right of the copyright owner to control the reproduction, distribution, and transmission of the Work and such Derivative Works in Source or Object form.

2. Grant of Copyright License. Subject to the terms and conditions of this License, each Contributor hereby grants to You a copyright, trademark, and patent license to reproduce, propagate, and distribute the Work and such Derivative Works in Source or Object form.

3. Grant of Patent License. Subject to the terms and conditions of this License, each Contributor hereby grants to You a patent, trademark, and copyright license to reproduce, propagate, and distribute the Work and such Derivative Works in Source or Object form.

4. Redistribution. You may reproduce and distribute copies of the Work or Derivative Works thereof in any medium, with or without modifications, in Source or Object form, provided that You meet the following requirements:

(a) You must give any other recipients of the Work or Derivative Works a copy of this License and

(b) You must cause any modified files to carry prominent notices stating that You changed the files and

(c) You must retain, in the Source form of any Derivative Works that You distribute, all copyright, patent, trademark, and distribution notices from the Source form of the Work, including this License, its license notices, and distribution notices from the Source form of any Derivative Works that You distribute.

(d) If the Work includes a "NOTICE" text file as part of its distribution, then any Derivative Works that You distribute must include a readable form of that "NOTICE" text file, either as printed text or as a separate file.

(e) You must retain the copyright notice for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(f) You may not remove any copyright notices for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(g) You may not sublicense any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(h) You may not use any trademark, patent, or copyright notice for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(i) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(j) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(k) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(l) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(m) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(n) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(o) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(p) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(q) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(r) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(s) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(t) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(u) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(v) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(w) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(x) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(y) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

(z) You may not use any trade name, service mark, or trademark for any Derivative Works that You distribute, and you must include a copy of this License with each copy of the Derivative Works that You distribute.

Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute verbatim copies of this license document, but changing it is not allowed.

Preamble
The licenses for most software are designed to take away your freedom to share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public License is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and change any software to which you wish to apply it. In order to make this goal more likely, the authors of the GNU General Public License have written this license which you can use to protect your rights.

When you speak of free software, you are referring to freedom, not price. Our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure that you have the freedom to distribute copies of freely licensed programs; to change them to suit your particular circumstances; to improve them for your own community at large; and to publish your improvements to the whole community. You may charge a fee for your program; you may even charge more than the cost of distribution. This is permitted, and you are encouraged to do so, but we want to make sure that you have the freedom and knowledge to recoup your investment in the program. You may not charge more than the cost of distribution. This is permitted, and you are encouraged to do so, but we want to make sure that you have the freedom and knowledge to recoup your investment in the program. You may not charge more than the cost of distribution.

We protect your rights with two steps: (1) copyright the software, and (2) offer you this License which gives you legal permission to copy, distribute and/or modify the software.

Also, to protect your rights, we want to make sure that you receive certain protections that would normally be lost if you distribute copies of the software, or if you modify it. For example, if you distribute copies of such a program, whether you do so by selling or by giving it away, you must make sure that you give the same freedoms to the recipients of your copy. You must make sure that they, too, receive the same freedoms. You must make sure that they, too, receive the same freedoms. You must make sure that they, too, receive the same freedoms.

Finally, our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure that you have the freedom and knowledge to recoup your investment in the program. You may charge a fee for your program; you may even charge more than the cost of distribution. This is permitted, and you are encouraged to do so, but we want to make sure that you have the freedom and knowledge to recoup your investment in the program. You may not charge more than the cost of distribution.

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION
0. This License applies to any program or other work which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder stating that it is licensed under the terms of this General Public License. giving you legal permission to copy, distribute and/or modify it. for the developers' and authors' protection, the GPL clearly explains that there is no warranty for this free software. The license and authors' take, the GPL requires that modified versions be marked as changed, and that they be distributed prominently to recipients in printed form.

Some decisions are designed to deny users access to install or run modified versions of the program, although the GPL clearly states that it is fundamentally incompatible with any such attempt to do so. This is fundamentally incompatible with the aim of providing users freedom to change the software. The various authors of such software are in the area of products for individuals to use, which is precisely where it is most unacceptable. Otherwise, we would be encouraging individuals to invent such software, and to deny users such access to it in other domains, a thing which we oppose very strongly. In future versions of the license, we will continue to strive to make this more difficult.

Finally, every program is threatened constantly by software patents. We must make it clear that anyone who attempts to patent the software or a general-purpose computer, but in those cases we wish to make the patent holder's patent applicable to a free program, we will make it effectively impossible. To prevent this, the GPL makes that patent cannot be used to restrict the program from free.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification follow.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

0. Definitions.
This License refers to version 3 of the GNU General Public License.
"Copyright" also means copyright-like laws that apply to other kinds of works, such as semiconductor masks.
"The Program" refers to any copyrightable work licensed under this License. Each licensee is addressed as "you".
"Licensee" and "recipient" may be individuals or organizations.

To modify a work means to copy from or alter all or part of the work in a fashion requiring copyright permission, other than the making of an exact copy. The resulting work is called a "modified version" of the earlier work or a work "based on" the earlier work.

A "covered work" means either the copyrightable Program or a work based on the Program.

To "propagate" a work means to do anything with it that, without permission, would make you directly or indirectly liable for any infringement, under any copyright or other intellectual property law, for a copy of or for the creation, distribution, or reception, in any form or by any means, of a copy of such work by or to any person other than you, or to act in concert with any other person who engages in such activities. In particular, but not limited to, to propagate means to communicate, copy, distribute, publicly display, publicly perform, or otherwise make available a copy of the work to a third party, whether by means of a physical or digital transmission medium, or by any information storage or retrieval system, or by any means, whether electronic, mechanical, or otherwise, for the purpose of providing access to the work by a third party.

To "convey" a work means any kind of propagation that enables other parties to make or receive copies. However, it does not include a transfer through a computer network, with no transfer of a copy, or no copying.

An interactive user interface operating on a computer network is controlled by its servers. However, servers that do not store user information for the network, and do not control access to the network, are not servers for the purposes of this License. In addition, the servers for the network are not servers for the purposes of this License, if the network presents a list of user accounts or sessions, such as a web page, a graphical interface, or the like, to a user.

1. Source Code.
The "source code" for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. "Object code" means any non-source form of a work.

A "standard interface" means an interface that either is an official standard defined by a recognized standards body, or in the case of interfaces specified for a particular programming language, one that is widely used among developers working in that language.

The "System Libraries" of a program are the libraries and other files that are used by the program, but which are not part of the program itself. The "System Libraries" of a program are the libraries and other files that are used by the program, but which are not part of the program itself. The "System Libraries" of a program are the libraries and other files that are used by the program, but which are not part of the program itself.

The "Corresponding Source" for a work in object code form means all the source code needed to generate, install, and (for an executable or script) to run the program, including all the source code for the system libraries, and all the source code for the program, but excluding the system libraries and any other source code for the program that is not part of the program itself.

The Corresponding Source for a work in source code form is that same work.

2. Basic Permissions.
All rights granted under this License are granted for the term of copyright in the Program, and are extended to anyone who receives the Program in any form, including but not limited to electronic, mechanical, or otherwise, for the purpose of providing access to the work by a third party.

You may make, run and propagate covered works that you do not copy, for any purpose, and in any medium, without charge, provided you keep intact all notices stating that this License and its conditions apply to the copy, and you make available a copy of this License along with the copy.

3. Protecting Users' Legal Rights From Anti-Circumvention Law.
No covered work shall be deemed part of an effective technological measure under any applicable law and regulation, under article 11 of the WIPO Copyright Treaty adopted in December 1996, or under any other law or regulation, that prohibits or restricts circumvention of such measures.

4. Conveying Verbatim Copies.
You may convey a verbatim copy of the Program's source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided you keep intact all notices stating that this License and its conditions apply to the copy, and you make available a copy of this License along with the copy.

5. Conveying Modified Source Versions.
You may convey a work based on the Program, or the modifications to produce it from the Program, in the form of source code under the terms of section 4, provided that you also meet all of these conditions:

- a) The work must carry prominent notices stating that you modified it, and giving a relevant date.
- b) The work must carry prominent notices stating that it is derived under this License and any conditions added under section 7. This requirement replaces the requirement in section 4 to "keep intact all notices".
- c) You must license the entire work, as a whole, under this License to anyone who comes into possession of a copy. This license must be the same as the license that you received for the Program, or a license that is at least as liberal as the license that you received for the Program. In addition, you must license the work under this License to anyone who comes into possession of a copy of the work, whether you are conveying it as a separate work, or as part of a larger program, or as part of a larger work, or as part of a larger program, or as part of a larger work.
- d) If the work has interactive user interfaces, each must display appropriate legal notices; however, if the Program has interactive user interfaces, your work need not make them do so.

A compilation of a covered work with other separate and independent works, which are not by their nature extensions of the covered work, and which are not part of the same program, or of a larger program, or of a larger work, may be made, copied, and distributed, and the compilation as a whole may be licensed under a license other than this License, provided that you license the compilation as a whole under a license that is at least as liberal as the license that you received for the Program, or a license that is at least as liberal as the license that you received for the Program.

6. Conveying Non-Source Forms.
You may convey a covered work in object code form under the terms of section 4, provided that you also convey the machine-readable Corresponding Source under the terms of this License, in one of these ways:

- a) Convey the object code in, or embodied in, a physical product (including a physical distribution medium), accompanied by a written offer, valid for at least three years and valid for the whole term of the object code, to provide each copy of the object code with a written offer to provide each copy of the Corresponding Source for the object code.
- b) Convey the object code in, or embodied in, a physical product (including a physical distribution medium), accompanied by a written offer, valid for at least three years and valid for the whole term of the object code, to provide each copy of the object code with a written offer to provide each copy of the Corresponding Source for the object code.
- c) Convey individual copies of the object code with a copy of the Corresponding Source for each copy, or a copy of the Corresponding Source for a network server at no charge.
- d) Convey the object code by offering access from a designated place (offline or over a network) to the Corresponding Source, provided you use the same place or network to convey the object code, and you use the same place or network to convey the Corresponding Source.
- e) Convey the object code using peer-to-peer transmission, provided you inform other peers where the object code and Corresponding Source for the work are being offered to the general public at no charge under subsection f).

A separate set of object code files, other than those included from the Corresponding Source at a system library, need not be included in conveying the object code work.

"Your Product" is either (1) a "consumer product", which means any tangible personal property which is normally used for personal, family, or household purposes, or (2) anything designed or sold for incorporation into a "product", which means any tangible personal property which is normally used for commercial purposes. The term "product" does not include software or any other intangible property.

"Installation Information" for a "product" means any methods, procedures, authorization keys, or other information required to install and execute modified versions of a program on a computer, in order to use the modified version of the program. The information must be placed in the same form or format as the information for the unmodified program, and must be conveyed to the recipient of the modified program in a form or format that is practical to convey.

The requirement to provide Installation Information does not include a requirement to provide the installation information, software, or other information for the program, in which it has been modified or installed. However, if a program is modified or installed in a way that requires the recipient to install modified versions of the program, the recipient must be provided with the installation information. But this requirement does not apply if the recipient of the program is not a natural person, or if the recipient is a natural person but the recipient is not a natural person.

Corresponding Source conveyed and Installation Information provided, in accordance with this section, must be in a form and format that is practical to convey, and must be conveyed to the recipient of the modified program in a form or format that is practical to convey.

7. Additional Terms.
"Additional permissions" are terms that supplement the terms of this License by making exceptions from one or more of its conditions. Additional permissions that are included in the Corresponding Source for a program must not contradict, limit, or impose conditions that are more restrictive than the conditions of this License. If additional permissions are included in the Corresponding Source for a program, they must be included in the Corresponding Source for the program, and they must be conveyed to the recipient of the program in a form or format that is practical to convey.

When you convey a copy of a covered work, you may at your option remove any additional permissions from that copy, or from any part of it, provided that you remove the permissions from the copy of the work in which you make the modification, and you remove the permissions from the copy of the work in which you make the modification.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this License, for material you add to a covered work, you may if authorized by the copyright holders of that material supplement the terms of this License with terms:

- a) Disclaiming warranty or limiting liability differently from the terms of sections 15 and 16 of this License, or
- b) Requesting preservation of specified reasonable legal notices or other attributions in that material or in the documentation that accompany the material, or
- c) Prohibiting misrepresentation of the origin of that material, or requiring that modified versions of such material be marked in reasonable ways as different from the original version, or
- d) Limiting the use for publicity purposes of names of licensors or authors of the material, or
- e) Disclaiming or limiting certain warranties that are part of this License, or
- f) Requesting indemnification of licensors and authors of that material by anyone who conveys the material (or modified versions of it) with any form of publicity, or
- g) Limiting the scope of publicity to which that material may be subject, or to the extent of that publicity, or
- h) Limiting the territory to which the material may be distributed, or
- i) Limiting the number of copies of the material that may be made, or
- j) Limiting the number of recipients to which the material may be conveyed, or
- k) Limiting the time for which the material may be used, or
- l) Limiting the time for which the material may be copied, or
- m) Limiting the time for which the material may be displayed, or
- n) Limiting the time for which the material may be performed, or
- o) Limiting the time for which the material may be otherwise used.

All other non-permissive additional terms are considered "further restrictions" for the purposes of this License. If a program is licensed under the terms of this License, and you add a further restriction to the program, you may if authorized by the copyright holders of that material supplement the terms of this License with terms that are more restrictive than the conditions of this License.

If you add terms to a covered work in accord with this section, you must include in the relevant source code, a prominent notice that states that the particular code that carries the further restrictions is not subject to the terms of this License. You may add a notice that states that the particular code that carries the further restrictions is not subject to the terms of this License.

If you add terms to a covered work in accord with this section, you must include in the relevant source code, a prominent notice that states that the particular code that carries the further restrictions is not subject to the terms of this License.

Public license permits more latitude for linking other code with the library.

We call this license the "Lesser" General Public License because it does less to protect the user's freedom than the ordinary General Public License. It also preserves other free software developers' freedom to use the library. However, the lesser license provides advantages in certain special circumstances.

For example, for pure sciences, there may be a special need to encourage the widest possible use of a certain library, so that it becomes a de facto standard. To achieve this, one may prefer to use a library even when the new job is already done from free libraries. In this case, it is better to start by linking the free library to free programs.

In other cases, permission to use a particular library in non-free programs enables a broader number of people to use a large body of free software. For example, permission to use the GNU C library in the unmodified kernel may encourage people to use the GNU operating system, as well as its variant, the GNU/Linux operating system.

Although the Lesser General Public License is less protective of the user's freedom, it does ensure that the user of a program that is linked with the library has the same freedom to run that program using a modified version of the library.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification follow. Pay close attention to the difference between a work based on the library and a work that uses the library. The former contains code derived from the library, whereas the latter may only contain code derived from the library, or be a derivative work.

GNU LESSER GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

0. This License Agreement applies to any software library or other program which contains a notice that the program is licensed under the terms of this Lesser General Public License (also called "this License").

A "library" means a collection of software functions and/or data organized so as to be conveniently linked into application programs (which use some of these functions and data) to form executables.

The "library" means either the static library or the shared library, whichever has been distributed under these terms. A work based on the library must also be licensed under the terms of this License. A portion of it, either version or with modifications added, translated into another language, translated, or translated into another language, is included without limitation in the term "modification".

"Source code" for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For a library, complete source code means all the source code for the library, plus the original source code for all upstream libraries used, and the original source code for all upstream header files and the original source code for all upstream libraries used.

Activities other than copying, distribution and modification are not covered by this License. They are outside its scope. The act of copying a program using the library is not restricted, and output from such a program is covered only if its contents constitute a work based on the library. Linking of the use of the library in an executable is not restricted, and output from such a program is covered only if its contents constitute a work based on the library. Linking of the use of the library in an executable is not restricted, and output from such a program is covered only if its contents constitute a work based on the library.

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the library's complete source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy an appropriate acknowledgment that the copy was made from the source and that you follow the other terms of this License in all respects except as they may be modified in writing by you.

2. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may set your price for warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

3. You may modify your copy or copies of the library or any portion of it, thus creating a work based on the library, or copy it and distribute such modifications to other copies of the library, provided that you also meet all of these conditions:

a) The modified work must itself be a software library.

b) You must cause the files modified to carry prominent notices stating that you changed the files and the date of any change.

c) You must cause the whole of the work to be licensed at no charge to all third parties under the terms of this License.

4. If you modify the library and it is not a derivative work, you must make it clear in any notice of modification that you have made modifications to it. You must make it clear in any notice of modification that you have made modifications to it. You must make it clear in any notice of modification that you have made modifications to it.

5. In addition, you must make every copy of the library you distribute available in a form that can be used to regenerate the library's complete source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy an appropriate acknowledgment that the copy was made from the source and that you follow the other terms of this License in all respects except as they may be modified in writing by you.

6. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may set your price for warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

7. You may modify your copy or copies of the library or any portion of it, thus creating a work based on the library, or copy it and distribute such modifications to other copies of the library, provided that you also meet all of these conditions:

You must make it clear in any notice of modification that you have made modifications to it. You must make it clear in any notice of modification that you have made modifications to it.

9. In addition, you must make every copy of the library you distribute available in a form that can be used to regenerate the library's complete source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy an appropriate acknowledgment that the copy was made from the source and that you follow the other terms of this License in all respects except as they may be modified in writing by you.

10. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may set your price for warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

11. You may modify your copy or copies of the library or any portion of it, thus creating a work based on the library, or copy it and distribute such modifications to other copies of the library, provided that you also meet all of these conditions:

a) The modified work must itself be a software library.

b) You must cause the files modified to carry prominent notices stating that you changed the files and the date of any change.

15. REPAIR THE LIBRARY IN LICENSED STATE OF CHANGE. THERE IS NO WARRANTY FOR THE LIBRARY, TO THE EXTENT PERMITTED BY APPLICABLE LAW. EXCEPT WHEN OTHERWISE INDICATED IN WRITING, THE COPYRIGHT HOLDERS AND/OR OTHER PARTIES PROVIDE THE LIBRARY "AS IS" WITHOUT WARRANTY OF ANY KIND, EITHER EXPRESSED OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING, BUT NOT LIMITED TO, THE IMPLIED WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY AND FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. THE ENTIRE RISK AS TO THE QUALITY AND PERFORMANCE OF THE LIBRARY IS WITH YOU. SHOULD THE LIBRARY TESTS DETECTIVE, YOU ACCEPT THE COST OF ALL NECESSARY SERVICING, REPAIR OR CORRECTION.

16. IN NO EVENT UNLESS REQUIRED BY APPLICABLE LAW OR AGREED TO IN WRITING WILL ANY COPYRIGHT HOLDER, OR ANY OTHER PARTY WHO MAY MODIFY AND/OR EXTEND THIS LICENSE, BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR DAMAGES, INCLUDING ANY GENERAL, SPECIAL, INCIDENTAL, OR CONSEQUENTIAL DAMAGES ARISING OUT OF THE USE OR INABILITY TO USE THE LIBRARY (INCLUDING RECOVERY OF DATA COSTS OR DATA LOSS), EVEN IF YOU HAVE BEEN ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGES. THE FAILURE OF THE LIBRARY TO OPERATE WITH SOME OTHER SOFTWARE, EVEN IF SUCH FAILURE IS CAUSED BY OTHER PARTY, DOES NOT CONSTITUTE A FAILURE OF SUCH SOFTWARE.

END OF TERMS AND CONDITIONS

How to Apply These Terms to Your New Libraries

If you develop a library, and you want it to be of the greatest benefit to the public, we recommend making it free software that respects the copyleft and change. You do so by providing restrictions under these terms (if, alternatively, under the terms of the ordinary General Public License).

To apply these terms, attach the following notice to the library. It is advised to attach this to the start of each source file and, if practical, convey the section of warranty, and such file should bear a "COPYRIGHT" line and a section to whom the full warranty applies.

You may also give the library's name and a brief idea of what it does. > Copyright (C) year - name of author

This library is free software; you can redistribute it and/or modify it under the terms of the GNU Lesser General Public License as published by the Free Software Foundation, either version 2.1 of the License, or (at your option) any later version.

This library is distributed in the hope that it will be useful, but WITHOUT ANY WARRANTY; without even the implied warranty of MERCHANTABILITY or FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. See the GNU Lesser General Public License for more details.

You should have received a copy of the GNU Lesser General Public License along with this library; if not, write to the Free Software Foundation, Inc., 51 Franklin St, Fifth Floor, Boston, MA 02110-1301 USA

Also send information on how to contact you by electronic and paper mail.

We would also get your address (if you work in a government or your school), if any, to sign a "copyright disclaimer" for the library, if necessary, here is a sample after the name:

Preamble

The licenses for most software are designed to take away your freedom to share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public License is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and change free software to suit your system as you see fit. At all times you are given the right to copy and distribute verbatim copies of the GNU General Public License, and to use it to permit others to do so. Each program that comes with GNU General Public License is given in writing, with the program, a copy of this license and the right to copy and distribute it under the program's license.

When you speak of free software, you are referring to freedom, not price. Our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure that you have the freedom to distribute copies of free software (no charge for this service) to anyone you wish, subject to the usual precaution of not doing so in a way that causes the software or associated documentation to be widely known or distributed.

To protect your rights, we need to make restrictions that forbid anyone to deny you these rights or to ask you to relinquish them. These restrictions translate to certain responsibilities for you if you distribute copies of the software, or if you modify it.

For example, if you distribute copies of such a program, whether gratis or for a fee, you must give the recipients all the rights that you have. You must make sure that they receive the original or a copy that can be redistributed in the same way as you received it.

For example, if you distribute copies of such a program, whether gratis or for a fee, you must give the recipients all the rights that you have. You must make sure that they receive the original or a copy that can be redistributed in the same way as you received it.

END OF TERMS AND CONDITIONS

How to Apply These Terms to Your New Program

If you develop a new program, and you want it to be of the greatest possible use to the public, the best way to achieve this is to make it free software which everyone can redistribute and change under these terms.

To do so, attach the following notices to the program. It is safest to attach them to the start of each source file to most effectively convey the definition of "source" to anyone who receives it. Each notice should refer to the corresponding public license that you wish to use.

One line to give the program's name and a brief idea of what it does.
Copyright notice.
This program is free software; you can redistribute it and/or modify it under the terms of the GNU General Public License as published by the Free Software Foundation; either version 2 of the License, or (at your option) any later version.

This program is distributed in the hope that it will be useful.
WITHOUT ANY WARRANTY; without even the implied warranty of MERCHANTABILITY or FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. See the GNU General Public License for more details.
You should have received a copy of the GNU General Public License along with this program; if not, write to the Free Software Foundation, Inc., 59 Temple Place, Suite 330, Boston, MA 02111-1307 USA

Also add information on how to contact you by electronic and paper mail.

If the program is interactive, make it appear in about-screens like this when it starts in an interactive mode:

GNU Emacs 20. Copyright (C) 1990 Free Software Foundation, Inc. License GPLv2+: GNU GPL version 2 or later <http://www.gnu.org/licenses/gpl.html>. This is Free Software; you are free to copy and distribute copies of it under certain conditions. Type 'show' to see these conditions.

You should also get your employer (if you work as a programmer) or your school, if any, to sign a "copyright disclaimer" for the program, if necessary. Here is a sample; alter the names:

PROGRAM, INC. hereby disclaims all copyright interest in the program 'EMACS' (which makes passes at compilers) written by James Hacker.
Signature of Ty Coon, 1 April 1989
Ty Coon, President of Emacs

This General Public License does not permit incorporating your program into proprietary programs. If your program is a sub-library of a proprietary program, you must use the GNU General Public License to distribute the library. If this is not what you want to do, use the GNU Library General Public License instead of this License.

Version 2, June 1991

Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute verbatim copies of this License document, but changing it is not allowed.

Preamble
The licenses for most software are designed to take away your freedom to share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public License is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and change free software to run your particular business or to benefit the wider community. This license is intended to make sure that you have the right to distribute copies of free software (and charge for them) and, in your own interest, to receive updates in the future for the software you use.

When we speak of free software, we are referring to freedom, not price. Our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure that you have the freedom to distribute copies of software freely to the people you wish to help. You may charge for the paper or other costs of distributing the software. You may also charge for your time in helping others to understand the GNU General Public License.

Protect your rights, we need to make restrictions that forbid redistributors to remove your name from a program, to claim authorship of it, or to restrict your ability to pass on a program in the future. You also must make sure that they receive the same rights you receive. For example, if you distribute copies of such a program, whether gratis or for a fee, you must give the recipients all the rights that you have. You must make sure that they, too, receive or can get the source code. And you must show them how to pass on to them their rights to the program.

We protect your rights with two steps: (1) copyright the software, and (2) offer you this License which gives you legal permission to copy, distribute and/or modify the software.

Also, for each author's protection and ours, we want to make certain that copyright notices for copiers to be accurate, to avoid confusion among the public, and to protect their ability to get the original or updated versions. Finally, any free program is threatened constantly by software patents. We wish to avoid the need for a general patent grant for everyone's free software. To prevent this, we have made it clear that any patent must be licensed for everyone's free use or not licensed at all.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification follow.

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

0. This License applies to any program or other work which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder stating it may be distributed under the terms of this General Public License. The "Program" below refers to any such program or work, and a "work based on the Program" means any work derived from the Program by adding to it code or material from other sources or by modifying and/or translating into another language. "Copies" and "copies in any medium" include without limitation all media and any other representations.

Activities other than copying, distribution and modification are not restricted by this license. For example, you may distribute copies of the Program in a format that does not fit into the definition of "copies" provided by this license, provided you make it clear that you are not distributing a copy of the Program (e.g., by using the term "documentation" or "manual" instead of "copy" or "copies").

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the Program's source code as you find it, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and prominently publish any applicable copyright notice and you retain the copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty. You must also retain the copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty in the absence of any warranty, and you must also retain this license and a copy of this license along with the Program.

You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may set your price for software provided in exchange for a fee.
2. You may modify your copy or copies of the Program or any portion of it, under the terms of the copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty above, provided that you also meet all of the conditions below:

a) The work must carry the original author's name, title and copyright notice, and you must retain the copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty. You must also retain this license and a copy of this license along with the Program.
b) The work must carry the date of the original work, and you must carry the date of any change.
c) If the modified program normally needs commands, automatically when run, you must carry it when started running, and you must carry the same commands, automatically when run, as the original program. You must also carry a notice that there is no warranty for the modified program, and you must carry the same notice, automatically when run, as the original program. You must also carry a notice that the modified program is not a GNU program, and you must carry the same notice, automatically when run, as the original program.

These conditions apply to the modified program as a whole, and you must carry them in all copies of the modified program. You must also carry them in all copies of the modified program that you distribute. You must also carry them in all copies of the modified program that you make available to the public. You must also carry them in all copies of the modified program that you make available to the public in any form.

3. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program in object code form under the terms of the copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty above, provided that you also meet all of the conditions below:

a) The work must carry the original author's name, title and copyright notice, and you must retain the copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty. You must also retain this license and a copy of this license along with the Program.
b) The work must carry the date of the original work, and you must carry the date of any change.
c) If the modified program normally needs commands, automatically when run, you must carry it when started running, and you must carry the same commands, automatically when run, as the original program. You must also carry a notice that there is no warranty for the modified program, and you must carry the same notice, automatically when run, as the original program. You must also carry a notice that the modified program is not a GNU program, and you must carry the same notice, automatically when run, as the original program.

These conditions apply to the modified program as a whole, and you must carry them in all copies of the modified program. You must also carry them in all copies of the modified program that you distribute. You must also carry them in all copies of the modified program that you make available to the public. You must also carry them in all copies of the modified program that you make available to the public in any form.

4. Each time you redistribute the Program (or any work based on the Program) in source code form, you must accompany it with the complete corresponding machine-readable source code. This source code must be distributed under the terms of the copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty above, and you must also retain this license and a copy of this license along with the Program.

5. You may copy and distribute the Program (or any work based on it), under Section 2 in object code or executable form under the terms of the copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty above, provided that you also meet all of the conditions below:

a) Accompany it with the complete corresponding machine-readable source code, which must be distributed under the terms of Sections 1 and 2 above as a medium customarily used for software interchange; or
b) Accompany it with a written offer, valid for at least three years, to give any third party, for a charge no more than your cost of providing the source code, a complete machine-readable copy of the corresponding source code. This offer must be made in a medium customarily used for software interchange; or
c) Accompany it with the information you received as to the offer to distribute the program in object code or executable form, plus such an offer, in accordance with Section 2 above.

The source code for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For an executable work, complete source code means all the source code for all modules it contains, plus any associated interface definition files, plus the scripts used to control compilation and installation of the executable. However, a system program or other component (compiler, kernel, or other part) not used in the actual distribution is not considered part of the source code for a work unless it accompanies the executable.

If distribution of executable or object code is made by offering access to copy from a designated place, then offering equivalent access to copy the source code from the same place counts as distribution of the source code, even if third parties are not compelled to copy the source along with the object code.

6. You may not copy, modify, sublicense or distribute the Program as a proprietary product under this License. Any attempt to sublicense or distribute the Program in this manner is void, and you will remain liable to comply with the conditions of this License. However, parties who have received copies of the Program from you under this License may still distribute copies of the Program under the conditions of this License, provided they first obtain your permission to do so.

7. You may not require anyone to accept this license, or you may not impose any conditions on the use of the Program that are not stated in this license. However, you may require anyone to accept this license, or you may not impose any conditions on the use of the Program that are not stated in this license. possible use to the public, the best way to achieve this is to make it free software which everyone can redistribute and change under these terms.

To do so, attach the following notices to the program. It is safest to attach them to the start of each source file in most circumstances, to the beginning of each source file for all programs, and to each individual file for large libraries. For libraries, it is safest to include only the copyright notice at the beginning of the library, and to use the notice for individual files in the files themselves.

Now line to give the program's name and a brief idea of what it does. < Copyright (C) 1989-1991, name of author.

If the program is interactive, make it output a short notice like this:

GNU Emacs version 8.0. Copyright (C) 1989-1991, name of author. This program is free software; you can redistribute it and/or modify it under certain conditions. Type 'show' for details.

The hypothetical command 'show' or 'show show' should show the appropriate parts of the General Public License. Of course, the command you use may be called something other than 'show' or 'show show'. This could mean that you need to call the command several times, or you may need to call the command with a different name.

You should also get your employer (if you work as a programmer) or your school, if you are to sign a copyright assignment, for the program, if necessary. Here is a sample after the name:

Yoogroup, Inc., hereby disclaims all copyright interest in the program 'Emacs' (which makes sense) as copyright written by James Gosling under contract to Yoogroup, Inc., 1 April 1989.

Yoogroup, Inc., 1 April 1989

This General Public License does not permit incorporating your program into proprietary programs. If your program is a subroutine library, you may use it as part of a proprietary program, but only if you use it without modification. In that case, you must acknowledge the library as used. If it is a library, it is identified by the name of the library. If this is what you want to do, use the GNU Library General Public License instead of this License.

You should have received a copy of the GNU General Public License along with this library; if not, write to the Free Software Foundation, Inc., 51 Franklin Street, Fifth Floor, Boston, MA 02110-1301 USA

Also add information on how to contact you by electronic and paper mail. You should also get your employer (if you work as a programmer) or your school, if any, to add a "copyright" disclaimer for the library, if necessary. Here is a sample after the name:

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE

Version 2, June 1991

Copyright (C) 1989, 1991 Free Software Foundation, Inc.
51 Franklin Street, Boston, MA 02110-1301 USA
Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute verbatim copies of this license document, but changing it is not allowed.

Preamble

The licenses for most software are designed to take away your freedom to share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public License is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and change free software to run the affairs of your community at will. In particular, the General Public License applies to most of the Free Software Foundation's software, and it also applies to any derivative works you create. (Some other Free Software Foundation software is covered by the GNU Lesser General Public License instead.) You can apply it to your programs, too.

When we speak of free software, we are referring to freedom, not price. Our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure that you have the freedom to distribute copies of free software (and charge for that service if you wish), that you receive source code or can get it if you wish, that you can change the software if you wish, and that you can distribute copies of your software if you wish.

By making the program a free program, you are at the same time asserting your rights to be free to improve the program. This restriction translates to certain restrictions for you if you distribute copies of the software, or if you modify it.

For example, if you distribute copies of such a program, whether gratis or for a fee, you must also distribute all the source code for that program, and you must show how others can get the source code. And you must show them how to get the source code.

Moreover, if you modify the program, you must publish the modified version so that the community as a whole can benefit. (Of course, this requirement applies to your modifications, not to the original program.)

Also, for each author's protection and ours, we want to make certain that everyone understands that there is no warranty for this free software. If the software is modified by someone else and passed on, we want its recipients to know that what they have is not the original, so that they can receive from the original author any help that is needed.

Finally, our free programs are covered by a warranty that protects the rights of those who use and distribute them. To prevent this, we have made it clear that any person must be licensed for anyone's free use of our software at all.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification follow.

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

0. This License applies to any program or other work which contains a notice in its source code stating it is licensed under the terms of this License. The program or other work may also be licensed under the terms of a more restrictive license, which must be included in the source code of that program or other work. Each licensee is addressed as "you".

Activities other than copying, distribution and modification are not covered by this License; they are outside its scope. The act of copying the Program or not distributing it is not restricted, and the act of copying is covered only if the copies are made for distribution. (This section does not apply to multiple copies for promotional purposes.)

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the Program's source code as you see fit, provided that you copy the whole file, if you have the whole file. You may also copy and distribute verbatim copies of the Program's object code, provided that you also copy the source code, and that you distribute under the same license all the source code for the program that you distribute.

2. You may modify your copy or copies of the Program or any portion thereof, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

3. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

4. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

5. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

6. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

7. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

8. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

9. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

10. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

11. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

12. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

13. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

14. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

15. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

16. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

17. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

18. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

19. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

20. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

21. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

22. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

23. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

24. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

25. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

26. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

27. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

28. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

29. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

30. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

31. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

32. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

33. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

34. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

35. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

36. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

37. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

38. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, provided that you also copy and distribute your modifications under the terms of this License. You may also copy and distribute your modifications or work under the terms of a license other than this License, provided that you also copy and distribute the Program's source code under the terms of this License.

distribute such modifications or work under the terms of Section 1 above, provided that you also meet all of these conditions:

1. The modified work must itself be a software library.
 2. You must cause the files modified to carry prominent notices stating that you changed the files and the date of any change.
 3. You must cause the whole of the work to be licensed at no charge to all third parties under the terms of this License.
 4. If a Facility in the modified library refers to a function or a table of data to be supplied by an application program that was not provided by the original library, you must also provide a copy of such application program to each third party receiving the modified library. If the application program does not modify the original library, you must cause the modified library to carry a prominent notice of the application program's name, the name of the facility that it modifies, and portions wherever part of the original library that it modifies.
- (For example, if a function in a library to compute square roots has been modified, the modified application program of the application must also provide a copy of the application program that it modifies. If the application does not modify it, the square root function must still compute square roots.)
- These requirements apply to the modified work as a whole. If identifiable sections of that work are not derived from the library, you can distribute them separately from the library, under different terms. If the modified library is a part of a larger program, you can distribute the larger program under terms that differ from the terms of this License, but the modified library must be distributed under the terms of this License. If you alter the library, the distribution of the whole must be on the terms of this License, your permissions for other licenses attached to the whole, and thus to each and every part regardless of who wrote it.
- This is not the intent of this section to claim rights or contest your rights to the work as a whole or to limit the freedom of distribution of the work as a whole. It merely asserts the right to control the distribution of derivative or collective works based on the library.
- In addition, some fragments of derivative work based on the library with the library (or with a work based on the library) on a volume of a storage or distribution medium does not bring the whole work under the scope of this License.

3. The way you copy the work must be such that the ordinary General Public License instead of this License to a given copy of the library. To do this, you must alter all the notices that refer to this License by referring to this License. (If a user writes that version 2 of the notice instead of this work.) Do not make any other change in these notices.

Show this change is made in a given copy, it is irrevocable for that copy, no the ordinary General Public License applies to all other copies.

This option is useful when you wish to copy part of the code of the library and a program that uses it.

4. The way you copy and distribute the library (or a portion or derivative work) must be such that the ordinary General Public License instead of this License to a given copy of the library. To do this, you must alter all the notices that refer to this License by referring to this License. (If a user writes that version 2 of the notice instead of this work.) Do not make any other change in these notices.

Show this change is made in a given copy, it is irrevocable for that copy, no the ordinary General Public License applies to all other copies.

This option is useful when you wish to copy part of the code of the library and a program that uses it.

5. A program that contains no derivative of any portion of the library, but is designed to work with the library to be modified or linked with it, is called a "work that uses the library." Such a work, in addition, can be a derivative work of the library, and therefore, must be distributed under the terms of this License. However, linking a "work that uses the library" with the library does not make the "work that uses the library" a derivative work of the library. The applicable terms for distribution of such a work are:

- a. When a work that uses the library uses material from a header file that is part of the library, the object code for the work may be a derivative work of the library, even though the source code is not. The object code must be distributed under the terms of this License. The source code must be distributed under the terms of this License.
- b. When a work that uses the library uses material from a header file that is not part of the library, the object code for the work may be a derivative work of the library, even though the source code is not. The object code must be distributed under the terms of this License. The source code must be distributed under the terms of this License.

6. An exception to the Sections above, you may also compile and distribute a work containing portions of the library, and distribute that work under terms of your choice, provided that the terms permit modification of the work for the purpose of non use and reverse engineering for debugging such modifications.

You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in it and that the library and its use are covered by the ordinary General Public License, and that you are not conveying any special authorization for the copy of this License. Also, you must do one of these things:

- a) Accompany the work with the complete corresponding machine-readable source code for the library, including whatever modifications you made. If the work is a derivative work of the library, you must also include the complete machine-readable source code for the library, with the modifications you made. You must also include the complete machine-readable source code for the library, with the modifications you made.
 - b) Accompany the work with a written offer, valid for at least three years, to provide the complete corresponding machine-readable source code for the library, including whatever modifications you made, at no charge to anyone who makes the offer to you.
 - c) If distribution of the work is made by offering access to copy the source code, offer equivalent access to copy the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.
 - d) Verify that the user has already received a copy of this notice.
- For an executable, the preferred form of the work that uses the library must include any data and utility programs needed for reproducing the executable from its source. A written offer to provide the source code must be made for at least three years. The offer must be made in either source or binary form with the major components, source, and all of the operating system as the executable.
- If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.
- If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

7. You may place library facilities that are a work based on the library, provided that the separate distribution of the work based on the library and of the original library facilities is otherwise permitted, and provided that you do these two things:

- a) Accompany the combined library with a copy of the same work based on the library, accompanied with any other library facilities. This must be distributed under the terms of the Section above.
- b) Give prominent notice with the combined library of the fact that the work is a work based on the library, and identifying where to find the accompanying combined form of the same work.

8. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the work as a derivative work of the library, unless you are authorized to do so under this License. If you are authorized to do so, you must also comply with all the terms and conditions for copying, distributing or modifying the library or work based on it.

9. Each time you redistribute the library or any work based on the library, you must also redistribute a copy of this License along with it. In addition, you must also give a copy of this License to each recipient of the work, and you must also give a copy of this License to each recipient of the work. You may not impose any further restrictions on the recipients' exercise of the rights granted herein. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

10. If, as a consequence of a court judgment or allegation of patent infringement or for any other reason not limited to patent causes, a process is used for copying or for distributing the work, you may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the work as a derivative work of the library, unless you are authorized to do so under this License. If you are authorized to do so, you must also comply with all the terms and conditions for copying, distributing or modifying the library or work based on it.

11. Each time you redistribute the library or any work based on the library, you must also redistribute a copy of this License along with it. In addition, you must also give a copy of this License to each recipient of the work, and you must also give a copy of this License to each recipient of the work. You may not impose any further restrictions on the recipients' exercise of the rights granted herein. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

12. In the event that the copyright owner or other party who has the right to grant a patent or other exclusive license in connection with the work, you may not copy, modify, sublicense, link with, or distribute the work as a derivative work of the library, unless you are authorized to do so under this License. If you are authorized to do so, you must also comply with all the terms and conditions for copying, distributing or modifying the library or work based on it.

13. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

14. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

15. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

16. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

17. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

18. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

19. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

20. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

21. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

22. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

23. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

24. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

25. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

26. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

27. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

28. If you have the source code, you must also provide a written offer to provide the source code for the user to the extent that you are able to do so.

the GNU Library General Public License instead.) You can apply it to your program, too.

When you speak of free software, we are referring to freedom, not price. Our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure that you have the freedom to distribute copies of free software (or charge for that service) for as long as you like. You also have the freedom to do so if you want it, that you can change the software or use pieces of it in new free programs; and that you know how to do these things.

To protect your rights, we need to make restrictions that forbid anyone to deny you these rights or to ask you to surrender the rights. These restrictions translate to certain responsibilities for you if you distribute copies of the software, or if you modify it.

For example, if you distribute copies of such a program, whether modified or not, you must make sure that everyone who receives it can also give it to his or her neighbor, as you did. You must make sure that they, too, receive the same source code. And you must show them these terms to which they agree to their rights.

We protect your rights with two steps: (1) copyright the software, and (2) offer you this License which gives you legal permission to copy, distribute and/or modify the software.

Also, for each user's protection and ours, we want to make certain that everyone understands that there is no warranty for this free software. If the software is modified by someone else and passed on, we would like you to think that what you see is the original version, so that any problems introduced by others will not reflect on the original author's reputation.

Finally, any free program is threatened constantly by software patents. We wish to avoid the danger that restrictions of a free program will indirectly affect great numbers of other free programs; and that we allow one to control a large number of free programs.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification follow.

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
Version 2, February 1989

0. This License applies to any program or other work which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder stating it may be distributed under the terms of this license. You can add it to programs you write. You may not use the Program or any derivative work under copyright law to claim a right to control the Program or a portion of it, to restrict copying or distribution of the Program, or to require anyone using the Program to accept additional terms or conditions.

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the Program's source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and prominently publish the following notice in each copy: Copyright (C) 1989 by [name], all rights reserved. This program is free software; you can redistribute it and/or modify it under the terms of the GNU General Public License.

2. You may modify your copy or copies of the Program or any portion of it, thus forming a work based on the Program, and copy and distribute such modifications or work under the terms of Section 1 above, provided that you also meet all of these conditions:

a) You must cause the modified files to carry prominent notices stating that you changed the files and the date of any change.

b) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program or any part thereof, to be licensed under the terms of this License to all those who receive it, whether they ask you to do so or not.

c) If the modified program normally reads commands interactively whenever the user enters it, you must cause the modified program to display an appropriate notice in each output file. This notice should display the name of the program, the name and address of its author, the name and address of the organization you represent, the name and address of the copyright owner, and the name and address of the person you deem responsible for directing the distribution of the Program.

d) You must cause the modified program to carry the same copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty that you received from the copyright holder. You must cause the program to carry this license and any other notices that were part of the Program's documentation.

e) You must cause the modified program to carry the same warranty disclaimer as the Program, unless you wish to substitute your own.

f) You must cause the modified program to carry the same notice of copyright and disclaimer of warranty as the Program, unless you wish to substitute your own.

g) You must cause the modified program to carry the same notice of copyright and disclaimer of warranty as the Program, unless you wish to substitute your own.

h) You must cause the modified program to carry the same notice of copyright and disclaimer of warranty as the Program, unless you wish to substitute your own.

i) You must cause the modified program to carry the same notice of copyright and disclaimer of warranty as the Program, unless you wish to substitute your own.

3. You may copy and distribute the Program as part of a larger program, provided that you clearly indicate in each copy that this program is included in the larger program, and that you clearly indicate in each copy that you are not responsible for the program's operation.

4. You may copy, modify, sublicense, or distribute the Program as part of a larger program, provided that you clearly indicate in each copy that this program is included in the larger program, and that you clearly indicate in each copy that you are not responsible for the program's operation.

5. You are not required to accept this License, since you have not signed it. However, nothing grants you permission to modify or distribute the Program or its derivative works. These actions are prohibited by law if you do not accept this License.

6. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, or distribute the Program if you are not authorized to do so by the copyright holder, or if you are prohibited from doing so by applicable law.

7. It is a precondition of your copying, modifying, or distributing the Program that you agree to the terms and conditions of this license.

8. If you are a court judgment or allegation of patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are held liable for any damages (including reasonable attorneys' fees) by anyone who has received copies of the Program or any part thereof, you must indemnify anyone who has received copies of the Program or any part thereof from any such liability.

9. If you distribute the Program or any part thereof, you must indemnify anyone who has received copies of the Program or any part thereof from any such liability.

10. If you distribute the Program or any part thereof, you must indemnify anyone who has received copies of the Program or any part thereof from any such liability.

11. If you distribute the Program or any part thereof, you must indemnify anyone who has received copies of the Program or any part thereof from any such liability.

12. If you distribute the Program or any part thereof, you must indemnify anyone who has received copies of the Program or any part thereof from any such liability.

13. If you distribute the Program or any part thereof, you must indemnify anyone who has received copies of the Program or any part thereof from any such liability.

14. If you distribute the Program or any part thereof, you must indemnify anyone who has received copies of the Program or any part thereof from any such liability.

15. If you distribute the Program or any part thereof, you must indemnify anyone who has received copies of the Program or any part thereof from any such liability.

GNU LESSER GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
Version 2.1, February 1989

This License applies to any program or other work which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder stating it may be distributed under the terms of this license. You can add it to programs you write. You may not use the Program or any derivative work under copyright law to claim a right to control the Program or a portion of it, to restrict copying or distribution of the Program, or to require anyone using the Program to accept additional terms or conditions.

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the Program's source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and prominently publish the following notice in each copy: Copyright (C) 1989 by [name], all rights reserved. This program is free software; you can redistribute it and/or modify it under the terms of the GNU Lesser General Public License.

2. You may modify your copy or copies of the Program or any portion of it, thus forming a work based on the Program, and copy and distribute such modifications or work under the terms of Section 1 above, provided that you also meet all of these conditions:

a) You must cause the modified files to carry prominent notices stating that you changed the files and the date of any change.

When we speak of free software, we are referring to freedom of use, not price. We denote public licenses as opposed to more usual ones for this purpose if you wish; that you receive source code as well as the program, that you can copy it and modify it, and that you can distribute copies of the program, and that you are informed that you can do these things.

To protect your rights, we have added more restrictions than those distributed by most major copyright holders to protect the rights of those who copy or distribute copies of the library or if you modify it.

For example, if you distribute copies of the library, whether printed or for a fee, you must give the recipients all the rights that we give you. You must ensure that they also receive, for example, the complete source code of the library and any modifications that you make to the library after receiving it. And you must show that these terms to those who receive it.

We protect your rights with a technique that is called copyleft. We protect your rights with a technique that we call copyleft. We protect your rights with a technique that we call copyleft.

To protect each distributor, we want to make it very clear that there is no warranty for the free library. Also, if the library is modified by someone else and you wish to use the original version, that you may have to use the original version. And the original author's reputation will not be affected by problems that might be introduced by others.

Finally, software patents pose a constant threat to the existence of any free program, in which it is necessary that a company cannot effectively restrict the control of a free program. We want to make sure that any patent licenses obtained for a version of the library must be consistent with the full freedom of use specified in this license.

Most GNU software, including some libraries, is covered by the GNU General Public License. This license, the GNU Lesser General Public License, allows you to combine free and non-free software. It is quite different from the ordinary GNU General Public License. We use this license for certain libraries in order to preserve linking those libraries into non-free programs.

When a program is linked with a library, whether statically or using a shared library, the combination of the two is legally speaking a combined work, a derivative of the original library. The ordinary GNU General Public License requires that the whole combination be distributed under the same license. This license, the GNU Lesser General Public License, allows you to distribute the combination under different terms, provided that the library itself is distributed under the GNU General Public License.

We call this license the "Lesser" General Public License because it does less to protect the user's freedom than the ordinary GNU General Public License. It also provides other free software developers less protection. We use the Lesser General Public License for many libraries. However, the Lesser General Public License does not apply in certain special circumstances.

For example, as a special exception, there may be a special need to protect the position of the licensee of a library that is licensed under the GNU General Public License. If you wish to allow the licensee of a library to use the library in a way that is not permitted by the GNU General Public License, you may do so, provided that you clearly state in your copyright notice that you are making an exception to the GNU General Public License for that particular library.

In other cases, permission to use a particular library in non-free programs may be necessary. For example, permission to use the GNU C library in a program which includes non-free programs is necessary. In such cases, there is no copyright system, as well as its variant, the GNU/Linux operating system.

Although the Lesser General Public License is less protective of the users' freedom, it does ensure that the user of a program that is linked with a library will have the same freedom of use as the user of the program using a modified version of the library.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification follow. Pay close attention to the differences between a work licensed under this license and the library, whereas the latter must be licensed with the library in order to run.

GNU LESSER GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

0. This License Agreement applies to any software library or other program which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder stating that it is licensed under this License (the "library"), or to any work which is based on the library and is distributed under the terms of this License (the "work").

A "library" means a collection of software functions and/or data organized so as to be conveniently linked with application programs which use the functions and data from the library.

The "library" version refers to an object code or a source code which has been distributed under this license. A "work based on the library" means either the library or any derivative work under copyright that is based on the library or a portion of it, either in object code or source code, provided that the library is included without modification in the work.

"Source code" for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For a library, source code means all the source code needed for compilation, linking and execution of the library.

Activities other than copying, distribution and modification are not covered by this license. They are outside its scope. The act of copying a work based on the library is not covered by this license if the work is covered by its own copyright and the library is licensed under the terms of this license.

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the library's source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy an appropriate copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty; keep all the notices that refer to this license and to the absence of any warranty; and distribute a copy of this license along with each copy of the library.

You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

2. You may modify your copy or copies of the library or any portion of it, thus forming a work based on the library, and copy and distribute such modifications to work under the terms of section 1 above, provided that you also meet all of these conditions:

a) The modified work must itself be a software library.
b) You must cause the files modified to carry prominent notices stating that you changed the files and the date of any change.
c) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license.

d) If you are making any changes which are not covered by this license, you must identify each of those changes in a separate file. For each change you must identify the file and the line or lines of code where you made the change. You must make the same identification in the work which you distribute. The file(s) must be named in a way that allows you to identify the change(s) and the file(s) in the work which you distribute. The file(s) must be named in a way that allows you to identify the change(s) and the file(s) in the work which you distribute.

e) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute.

f) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute.

g) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute.

h) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute.

i) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute.

j) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute.

k) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute.

l) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute.

m) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute.

n) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute. The notice must be placed in the work which you distribute.

o) You must cause the work to carry a notice in the usual place where such notices appear stating that you changed the work in accordance with this license. GNU LESSER GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
Version 2.1, February 1999

Copyright (C) 1991, 1999 Free Software Foundation, Inc.
51 Franklin Street, Boston, MA 02110-1131 USA
Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute verbatim copies of this license document, but changing it is not allowed.

[This is the first released version of the Lesser GPL. It also counts as the successor of the GNU Library Public License, version 2, since the version number 2.1.]

Preamble

The licenses for most software are designed to take away your freedom to share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public Licenses are intended to guarantee you freedom to share and change free software: to make sure the software is free for all its users.

This license, the Lesser General Public License, applies to some specially designated software packages (typically libraries) of the Free Software Foundation and other authors who decide to use it. You can use it too, but you should know that licenses for some other software may be different. In exercising the rights granted by this license to you, you accept the obligations described here.

When we speak of free software, we are referring to freedom of use and price. Our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure that you have the freedom to distribute copies of free software (and charge a price for it if you wish), that you can change the software and publish your changes, and that you are allowed to run the software without restriction.

To protect your rights, we need to make restrictions that forbid distributors to deny you these rights or to ask you to surrender these rights. These restrictions apply to the distributor's copyright notice, but they do not apply to you.

For example, if you distribute copies of the library, whether gratis or for a fee, you must make sure that you put the recipients in the position to exercise the rights granted by the license. This may mean that you need to accompany each copy of the library with a written statement that you have made the distribution. This may mean that you need to accompany each copy of the library with a copy of this license. This may mean that you need to accompany each copy of the library with a copy of the source code for the library. This may mean that you need to accompany each copy of the library with a copy of the source code for the library.

We protect your rights with a two-step method. (1) We copyright the library, so that we can control who else is permitted to copy, distribute and/or modify the library.

(2) We request that each distributor take a simple step to make sure that you are in the position to exercise the rights granted by the license. Your distribution must carry the copyright notice for the library, and you must accompany each copy of the library with a written statement that you have made the distribution. This may mean that you need to accompany each copy of the library with a copy of this license. This may mean that you need to accompany each copy of the library with a copy of the source code for the library.

Finally, software patents pose a constant threat to the existence of any free software. We wish to avoid patents being used as a means of restricting the use of our software. Therefore, we have included a provision in this license that prohibits anyone from using the name of the GNU General Public License to market or promote any product that is not free software.

When we refer to "this license", we mean either the Lesser General Public License or the GNU General Public License, whichever is applicable. We refer to "the license" to mean either of these two licenses. We refer to "the GNU General Public License" to mean the GNU General Public License, and we refer to "the Lesser General Public License" to mean the Lesser General Public License.

We call this license the "Lesser" General Public License because it has less restrictive terms than the GNU General Public License. This license is intended to be used in combination with the GNU General Public License, so that the GNU General Public License can be used for the majority of the program, while the Lesser General Public License can be used for the parts that require more flexible terms.

For example, the GNU General Public License may require that you release the source code for the entire program, while the Lesser General Public License may allow you to keep the source code for the library separate from the source code for the rest of the program.

In other cases, permission to use a particular library in non-free programs enables a greater number of people to use a large body of free software. For example, permission to use the GNU C library in non-free programs would make many more people want to use the GNU C library.

Although the Lesser General Public License is less protective of the users' freedom, it does ensure that the user of a program that is linked with the library has the freedom and the ability to run the program using a modified version of the library.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification are given in article 6. We place this license in the hope that it will be useful, but we do not warrant or accept any responsibility for its use.

GNU LESSER GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

0. This License Agreement applies to any software library or other program which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder of either this library or program, or both, that it is licensed under the terms of this Lesser General Public License (the "Library").

A "library" means a collection of software functions and/or data organized so as to be conveniently linked with application programs which use one or more of those functions and data. The executable form of such a library is not covered by this license.

The "Library", below, refers to any such software library or work which is covered by this license. The "work" below refers to the copyrighted work which is linked with the Library. The "work" below refers to the copyrightable work which is linked with the Library.

"Source code" for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For an executable work, complete source code means the source code for all modules it contains, plus any associated header files, object files and configuration files and documentation of the work.

Activities other than copying, distribution and modification are not covered by this license. They are outside its scope. The act of copying a program into the memory of a machine, or writing it on a storage medium, is not covered by this license. It is not covered by this license to make a copy of an executable for personal use, for internal or external computing, provided the original copy is used for internal or external computing, provided the original copy is used for internal or external computing.

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the Library's source code, under the terms of this license, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy an appropriate copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty; keep intact all the notices that refer to this license and to the absence of any warranty; and distribute a copy of this license along with the copy.

You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

2. You may modify your copy or copies of the Library and/or portion of it, under certain conditions specified by this license, to create a new "work" which is a derivative of the Library. The copyright notice for the new work must be at least as wide as the copyright notice for the Library. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

3. You may modify your copy or copies of the Library and/or portion of it, under certain conditions specified by this license, to create a new "work" which is a derivative of the Library. The copyright notice for the new work must be at least as wide as the copyright notice for the Library. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

4. You may modify your copy or copies of the Library and/or portion of it, under certain conditions specified by this license, to create a new "work" which is a derivative of the Library. The copyright notice for the new work must be at least as wide as the copyright notice for the Library. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

5. You may modify your copy or copies of the Library and/or portion of it, under certain conditions specified by this license, to create a new "work" which is a derivative of the Library. The copyright notice for the new work must be at least as wide as the copyright notice for the Library. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

6. You may modify your copy or copies of the Library and/or portion of it, under certain conditions specified by this license, to create a new "work" which is a derivative of the Library. The copyright notice for the new work must be at least as wide as the copyright notice for the Library. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

7. You may modify your copy or copies of the Library and/or portion of it, under certain conditions specified by this license, to create a new "work" which is a derivative of the Library. The copyright notice for the new work must be at least as wide as the copyright notice for the Library. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

8. You may modify your copy or copies of the Library and/or portion of it, under certain conditions specified by this license, to create a new "work" which is a derivative of the Library. The copyright notice for the new work must be at least as wide as the copyright notice for the Library. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in exchange for a fee.

as the successor of the GNU Library Public License, version 2, hence the version number 2.1.)

Preamble

The licenses for most software are designed to take away your freedom to share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public License is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and change free software - to make sure the software is free for all its users.

This license, the Lesser General Public License, applies to some specially designated software packages ("libraries") of the Free Software Foundation and other authors who decide to use it. You can use it too, but we suggest you first check carefully whether another license is more appropriate. You should always use the license strategy to use in any particular case, based on the requirements below.

When we speak of free software, we are referring to freedom of use, not price. Our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure that you have the freedom to do these things: to run the program on your computer as you see fit; to copy and redistribute it verbatim, in binary form; to modify it to suit your particular needs, and to improve the program by fixing bugs that affect other users.

To protect your rights, we need to make restrictions that forbid distributors to deny you these rights or to ask you to surrender these rights. These restrictions translate to certain responsibilities for you if you distribute copies of the library to others.

For example, if you distribute copies of the library, whether gratis or for a fee, you must make sure that you also give the recipients the right to copy and redistribute the recipient a copy of the library. If you wish to do this, you must either provide complete source code for the recipient, or you must provide complete object files in the recipient's own machine object files.

We protect your rights with two different methods: (1) we copyright the library, and (2) we offer you this license, which gives you legal permission to copy, distribute and/or modify the library.

To protect this license from being circumvented by anyone who does not have the authority to make such a warranty for the free library, the library is licensed to someone else and granted on the recipient's behalf that they must not be the original version, so that the original author's reputation will not be affected by problems that might be caused.

Finally, software patents pose a constant threat to the existence of any free software program. We wish to avoid patents being used to effectively restrict the users of a free program by obtaining a patent on the program. We therefore require that any patent licensee obtained for a version of the library must be consistent with the full freedom of use specified in this license.

Most GNU software, including some libraries, is covered by the GNU General Public License. This license, the GNU Lesser General Public License, is more liberal than the GNU General Public License, and is quite different from the ordinary General Public License. We use this license to protect our rights in our special libraries.

When a program is linked with a library, whether statically or using a dynamic linker, a derivative of the original library is created. The GNU Lesser General Public License therefore permits such linking only if the combined work fits its criteria of freedom. The Lesser General Public License permits more liberal criteria for linking other code with the library.

We call this license the "lesser" General Public License because it is more liberal than the ordinary General Public License for the library. However, the Lesser General Public License is not a "lesser" version of the GNU General Public License, and it is not intended to be used as such.

In other cases, permission to use a particular library in non-free programs makes a greater number of people to use the GNU Lesser General Public License. For example, permission to use the GNU C Library in non-free programs would make more people use the GNU C Library.

Although the Lesser General Public License is less protective of the author's freedom, it does ensure that the user of a program that is linked with the library has the freedom and the ability to use that program using a modified version of the library.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification are given in the license text. A work that uses the library is covered by the Lesser General Public License in order to run.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

0. This License Agreement applies to any software library or other program which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder of the program stating it is licensed under the terms of this Lesser General Public License (called "this License").

A "library" means a collection of software functions and/or data organized as a module intended to be linked with application programs. This license applies to the library as a whole, not to the individual functions or data within it.

The "library" below, refers to any such software library or work which is covered by this license. A work based on the library means either the library or any derivative work under copyright law that is based on the library and incorporates a portion of it, either verbatim or with modifications and/or translated into another language (including "intermediate" translation as part of a compilation).

"Source code" for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For the library, this includes the source code for all modules it contains, plus any associated header files, plus the script used to control compilation and installation of the library.

Activities other than copying, distribution and modification are not covered by this license; they are outside its scope. The act of copying a program into the library is not restricted, and must not be used to circumvent the terms of the library. If the library is used in a non-free program, the user of the program must use the library.

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the library's source code, in whole or in part, under the following conditions:

- a) You must cause the files to carry prominent notices that you have received this License from the copyright holder.
- b) You must cause the whole of the work to be licensed at no charge to all those who receive the work.
- c) If a facility in the modified library refers to a function or data in the original library, then you must include the facility in the modified library. This facility must be named in the same way as the original facility, and must perform the same function as the original facility.

(For example, a function in a library to compute square roots may be named "sqrt". If a facility in the modified library refers to the function "sqrt" in the original library, then you must include the facility in the modified library, and it must be named "sqrt".) If the application does not supply it, the square root function must still compute square roots.

These requirements apply to the modified work as a whole. If identifiable sections of that work are not derived from the library, they need not be licensed under this license. However, the license must apply to those sections which are derived from the library. The distribution of the whole must be on the terms of this license, with permission to link other parts of the work to the library, and thus to each and every part regardless of who wrote it.

This is not the intent of this section to claim rights or control your rights to work written entirely by you; rather, the intent is to ensure the right to control the distribution of derivative works based on the library.

2. In addition, you may distribute copies of the library with the library (or with a work based on the library) as a separate or integral part of another program, provided that you copy and distribute the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

3. You may not copy and distribute copies of the library or any part of it under any other terms, in any medium, without the prior written permission of the copyright holder.

4. You may copy and distribute copies of the library or any part of it under any other terms, in any medium, without the prior written permission of the copyright holder, provided that you copy and distribute the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

5. If you distribute copies of the library or any part of it under any other terms, in any medium, without the prior written permission of the copyright holder, you must include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

6. As an exception to the Sections above, you may also combine or link a work containing parts of the library, and distribute that work under terms of your choice, provided that the terms permit modification of the work for the customer's use and reverse engineering for debugging such modifications.

The most prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

7. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

8. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

9. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

10. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

11. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

12. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

13. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

14. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

15. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

16. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

17. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

18. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

19. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

20. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

21. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

22. You must give prominent notice with each copy of the work that the library is used in is to use the library and its use are covered by this license. You must also include the library in the form of a separate and distinct archive file.

subject to these terms and conditions. You may not license any further restrictions on the recipient's exercise of the rights granted herein. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with

11. If, as a consequence of a court judgment or allegation of patent infringement or for any other reason not limited to patent issues, conditions are imposed on you (whether by court order, agreement or otherwise) that conflict with the conditions of this License, you may, without in any way limiting your patent or trademark rights, elect to stop distribution of the work in its current form. Notwithstanding to the extent that you are able to do so, you may distribute the work in a modified form which complies with the conditions of this License. If you make such a modification, you must indicate in the modified work that you have made the modification and that you have not modified the work in any other way. If you are unable to do so, you may not distribute the work in any form. For example, if a patent claim would be infringed by your distribution of unmodified copies of the work and you are unable to do so, you may not distribute the work in any form. If you are unable to do so, you may not distribute the work in any form. If you are unable to do so, you may not distribute the work in any form. If you are unable to do so, you may not distribute the work in any form.

12. If you create a modified version of the work, you must indicate in the modified work that you have made the modification and that you have not modified the work in any other way. If you are unable to do so, you may not distribute the work in any form. For example, if a patent claim would be infringed by your distribution of unmodified copies of the work and you are unable to do so, you may not distribute the work in any form. If you are unable to do so, you may not distribute the work in any form. If you are unable to do so, you may not distribute the work in any form.

13. The Free Software Foundation may publish revised and/or new versions of the Lesser General Public License from time to time. Such new versions will be similar in spirit to the present version, but not necessarily on the same terms. Each version is given a distinguishing version number. If the Library is licensed under the Lesser General Public License, you may choose any version of the License that applies to the Library. If the Library has been modified by its users, use only the version number of the Lesser General Public License that was used to license the unmodified portion of the Library.

14. If you wish to incorporate parts of the Library into other free software, you may do so by linking with the Library. In such a case, you must indicate in the other software the names of the copyright holders and licensors of the Library, as well as the fact that it was linked with the Library. If you are unable to do so, you may not incorporate parts of the Library into other free software.

15. BECAUSE THE LIBRARY IS LICENSED FREE OF CHARGE, THERE IS NO WARRANTY FOR THE LIBRARY, TO THE EXTENT PERMITTED BY APPLICABLE LAW. EXCEPT WHEN OTHERWISE INDICATED IN WRITING THE COPYRIGHT HOLDERS AND/OR OTHER PARTIES PROVIDE THE LIBRARY "AS IS" WITHOUT WARRANTY OF ANY KIND, EITHER EXPRESSED OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING, BUT NOT LIMITED TO, THE IMPLIED WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY AND FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. YOU ASSUME THE RISK OF DAMAGING YOUR EQUIPMENT, LOSING DATA OR OTHERWISE AFFECTING THE ACCURACY OF YOUR INFORMATION BY USING THE LIBRARY.

16. IN NO EVENT SHALL THE COPYRIGHT HOLDERS OR OTHER PARTIES BE LIABLE FOR DAMAGES OR OTHER LIABILITY ARISING FROM THE USE OF THE LIBRARY, EVEN IF ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGE.

HOW TO APPLY THESE TERMS TO YOUR OWN LIBRARIES

If you develop a new library, you must add it to the list of the general public licenses. You must also add it to the list of the general public licenses. You must also add it to the list of the general public licenses. You must also add it to the list of the general public licenses.

To apply these terms to the following notices in the Library, it is sufficient to add the following text to the end of each notice. If you are unable to do so, you may not use the Library in any form. If you are unable to do so, you may not use the Library in any form. If you are unable to do so, you may not use the Library in any form.

This library is free software; you can redistribute it and/or modify it under the terms of the GNU Lesser General Public License as published by the Free Software Foundation; either version 2.1 of the License, or (at your option) any later version. This library is distributed in the hope that it will be useful, but WITHOUT ANY WARRANTY; without even the implied warranty of MERCHANTABILITY or FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. See the GNU Lesser General Public License for more details.

You should have received a copy of the GNU Lesser General Public License along with this library; if not, write to the Free Software Foundation, Inc., 51 Franklin Street, Fifth Floor, Boston, MA 02110-1301 USA. Also add information on how to contact you by electronic and paper mail. You should also get your employer (if you work as a programmer) or your school, if any, to agree that you may not be held liable for any damages or other liability arising from the use of the Library.

That's all there is to it!

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
Version 2, June 1991
Copyright (C) 1989, 1991 Free Software Foundation, Inc.
Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute verbatim copies of this License document, but changing it is not allowed.

Preamble
The licenses for most software are designed to make sure you (the user) can share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public License is intended to make sure the software is for all its users. This license is intended to make sure the software is for all its users. This license is intended to make sure the software is for all its users.

When we speak of free software, we are referring to freedom, not price. Our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure you have the freedom to distribute copies of free software (and charge for this service if you wish), that you receive source code or can get it if you want it, that you can change the software or use pieces of it for your own programs, and that you know who else is changing the software.

To protect your rights, we need to make restrictions that forbid anyone to deny you these rights or to ask you to surrender the rights. These restrictions translate to certain responsibilities for you if you distribute copies of the software, or if you modify it.

For example, if you distribute copies of such a program, whether gratis or for a fee, you must give the recipients all the rights that you have. You must also make sure that they receive the source code. And you must show them these terms so they know their rights.

We protect your rights with two steps: (1) copyright the software, and (2) offer you this License which gives you legal permission to copy, distribute and/or modify it. Also, for each author's protection and ours, we want to make certain that our consent is given on the terms of the License, so we will make a special exception for any material added by you that is not covered by this License, provided that you clearly mark such material as your own addition.

Finally, our program is licensed under the GNU General Public License. We wish to avoid the danger that restrictions of the GNU General Public License will be applied to the program by accident. To prevent this, we have made it clear that any patent must be licensed for anyone free use of the program at all.

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION
0. This License applies to any program or other work which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder stating it may be distributed under the terms of this License. The "Program" below refers to the program or other work which contains the notice. The notice must be placed in the program or other work in a form that is suitable for automatic processing. The notice must be placed in the program or other work in a form that is suitable for automatic processing.

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the Program's source code as the Program, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy an appropriate copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty; you must retain the copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty that you accompany every copy of the source code that you distribute or receive. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may set a price for each copy.

2. You may modify your copy or copies of the Program or any portion thereof, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy an appropriate copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty, you retain the copyright and other proprietary notices in the source code that you receive, and you must cause any work that you modify or create to be licensed under the terms of this License to anyone to whom you may distribute it.

3. You may copy and distribute the Program (or a work based on it, under Section 2) in object code or executable form under the terms of sections 1 and 2 above provided that you also do one of the following:
a) Accompany it with the complete corresponding machine-readable source code, which must be distributed under the terms of sections 1 and 2 above, on a medium customarily used for software interchange; or
b) Accompany it with a written offer, valid for at least three months, to provide all the source code for the program and any additional object code packaged with it, at a charge no more than the cost of physically performing source distribution; a complete machine-readable copy of the written offer, on a medium customarily used for software interchange; or
c) Accompany it with the information you received as to the offer to distribute corresponding source code. This information must be placed in a prominent position in the documentation and packaging of the program in object code or executable form with such an offer, in accordance with Subsection b) above.

4. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may set a price for each copy.
5. You may modify your copy or copies of the Program or any portion thereof, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy an appropriate copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty, you retain the copyright and other proprietary notices in the source code that you receive, and you must cause any work that you modify or create to be licensed under the terms of this License to anyone to whom you may distribute it.

6. In addition, any aggregation of another work not based on the Program with the Program (or with a work based on the Program) as a whole must be licensed under the terms of this License to anyone to whom you may distribute it.

7. The source code for a work based on the Program must be distributed under the terms of this License to anyone to whom you may distribute it.

8. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may set a price for each copy.

9. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may set a price for each copy.

10. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may set a price for each copy.

Preamble
The licenses for most software are designed to take away your freedom to share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public License is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and change the software - to make sure the software is free for all its users. The General Public License applies to most free software. This license, therefore, is intended to guarantee other users of the software the same freedom that you enjoy as its author. You as the author of the software must first provide your program source code. You must make sure that this license, which grants the freedom to everyone, is included in the package from which your program can be distributed. In addition, you must make sure that everyone receiving a copy of the program also has the right to copy and distribute the program. You must make sure that everyone receiving a copy of the program also has the right to copy and distribute the program. You must make sure that everyone receiving a copy of the program also has the right to copy and distribute the program.

0. This license applies to any program or other work which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder stating it may be distributed under the terms of this General Public License. This license does not apply to software that is not under copyright in the United States, but it does apply to software that is under copyright in other countries. In addition, it applies to software that is not under copyright but that is published with a copyright notice. This license does not apply to software that is published without a copyright notice.

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

1. This License applies to any program or other work which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder stating it may be distributed under the terms of this General Public License. This license does not apply to software that is not under copyright in the United States, but it does apply to software that is under copyright in other countries. In addition, it applies to software that is not under copyright but that is published with a copyright notice. This license does not apply to software that is published without a copyright notice.

2. You may copy, distribute, and modify the program as long as you comply with the following conditions:

- a) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program, to the extent that you are able to do so. In particular, you must cause any and all derivative works of the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program.
- b) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program, to the extent that you are able to do so. In particular, you must cause any and all derivative works of the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program.
- c) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program, to the extent that you are able to do so. In particular, you must cause any and all derivative works of the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program.

3. You may copy, distribute, and modify the program as long as you comply with the following conditions:

- a) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program, to the extent that you are able to do so. In particular, you must cause any and all derivative works of the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program.
- b) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program, to the extent that you are able to do so. In particular, you must cause any and all derivative works of the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program.

In particular, you must cause any and all derivative works of the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program.

4. If you modify the program, you must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program, to the extent that you are able to do so. In particular, you must cause any and all derivative works of the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program.

5. If you distribute a copy of the program, you must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program, to the extent that you are able to do so. 10. If you distribute a copy of the program, you must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program, to the extent that you are able to do so. In particular, you must cause any and all derivative works of the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program.

11. If you distribute a copy of the program, you must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program, to the extent that you are able to do so. In particular, you must cause any and all derivative works of the Program to be licensed under the same license as the Program.

years, to give any third party, for a charge no more than your cost of physically performing source distribution, a complete and exclusive right of use of the corresponding source code, to be exercised only in connection with the software, and to be made customarily used for software interchange, or:

c) Accompany it with the information you received as to the offer to distribute corresponding source code. This information is placed only for convenience and does not obligate you to provide the program in source form upon request.

The source code for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For an executable work, complete source code means the source code for all modules it contains, plus any associated interface definition files, plus the scripts used to control compilation and installation of the executable. However, as an exception to this definition, the source code need not include binary files with the source code, nor scripts used to control compilation, provided that all the information needed to regenerate the source code from each such binary file is included in the distribution, unless the component itself Accompanies the executable.

If distribution of executable or object code is made by referring to the name of a particular file, then the recipient must be given access to copy that file from the particular file, plus any other access to copies of the source code, even though third parties are not obligated to copy the source code with each copy.

4. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, or distribute the Program as you may in turn, provided you make reasonable efforts to ensure that the recipient is given the same rights that you yourself received under this License. This obligation of yours does not extend to any other person who receives copies or rights from you under this License, unless you have received copies or rights from that person that you are then obligated to give to the recipient.

5. You may not sublicense the Program as you may in turn, unless you have received copies or rights from the person you are then licensing to sublicense. You may not sublicense the Program as you may in turn, unless you have received copies or rights from that person that you are then obligated to give to the recipient.

6. Each time you redistribute the Program (or any work based on the Program) by conveying information about the Program to another person, you must copy and distribute to each such other person a copy of the License for the work that you are conveying. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

7. If, as a consequence of a court judgment or allegation of patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License, you may not sue, threaten to sue, or attempt to enforce a patent against any person for activities that are permitted by this License. You may not sue, threaten to sue, or attempt to enforce a patent against any person for activities that are permitted by this License, unless you have received copies or rights from that person that you are then obligated to give to the recipient.

8. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

9. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

10. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

11. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

12. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

13. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

14. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

15. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

16. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

17. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

18. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

19. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

20. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

21. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

22. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

23. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

24. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

25. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

26. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

27. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

28. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

29. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

30. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

31. If you distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also distribute a copy of this License along with the Program. If you do not do so, you may still be held liable for patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are made responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

Version 3, June 2007

Copyright (C) 2007 Free Software Foundation, Inc.
Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute verbatim copies of this license document, but changing it is not allowed.

Preamble
The licenses for most software are designed to make sure you, as the user, can do what you wish with the software. For example, the GNU General Public License is intended to make sure that you have the freedom to copy, to modify, to improve, to share, and to distribute your software. This license, the GNU General Public License, is intended to make sure that you have the freedom to copy, to modify, to improve, to share, and to distribute your software. It is the free software user's legal declaration of freedom to copy, to modify, to improve, to share, and to distribute your software. It is the free software user's legal declaration of freedom to copy, to modify, to improve, to share, and to distribute your software.

When we speak of free software, we are referring to freedom, not price. Our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure that you have the freedom to copy, to modify, to improve, to share, and to distribute your software. It is the free software user's legal declaration of freedom to copy, to modify, to improve, to share, and to distribute your software. It is the free software user's legal declaration of freedom to copy, to modify, to improve, to share, and to distribute your software.

To protect your rights, we need to make restrictions that forbid copying of the GNU General Public License and its derivatives. These restrictions translate to certain responsibilities for you if you distribute copies of the software, or if you modify it.

For example, if you distribute copies of such a program, whether gratis or for a fee, you must also make sure that you comply with the license. You must also make sure that you comply with the license. You must also make sure that you comply with the license. You must also make sure that you comply with the license.

We protect your rights with two steps: (1) copyright the software, and (2) offer you this License which gives you legal permission to copy, distribute and/or modify the software.

Also, for each author's protection and ours, we want to make certain that everyone understands that there is no warranty for this free software. If the software is modified by someone else and passed on, we would like to prevent anyone who claims to be the original author from denying that you have received your version of the software.

Finally, our free program is threatened constantly by software patents. We wish to avoid the danger that restrictions of a free program will be used to prevent the free program's use. We therefore, in addition to offering you the GNU General Public License, also offer you the GNU Affero General Public License, which is similar to GPL, but in addition, requires you to make a copy of any modified or derived work available to the general public. This license, the GNU Affero General Public License, is intended to make sure that you have the freedom to copy, to modify, to improve, to share, and to distribute your software. It is the free software user's legal declaration of freedom to copy, to modify, to improve, to share, and to distribute your software.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification follow.

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

0. This license applies to any program or other work which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder stating it may be distributed under the terms of this license. The license for the program is the license for the program as a whole, not the license for any part of it. This license is not intended to restrict the license for any part of the program.

1. You may copy, distribute, and/or modify the program as long as you comply with the following conditions:

a) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the program or any part thereof, to be licensed under the terms of this license, with the exception of works that are explicitly exempted in writing by the copyright holder.

b) If you modify the program, you must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the program or any part thereof, to be licensed under the terms of this license, with the exception of works that are explicitly exempted in writing by the copyright holder.

c) If you distribute a copy of the program, you must also distribute a copy of this license along with the program.

d) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the program or any part thereof, to be licensed under the terms of this license, with the exception of works that are explicitly exempted in writing by the copyright holder.

e) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the program or any part thereof, to be licensed under the terms of this license, with the exception of works that are explicitly exempted in writing by the copyright holder.

f) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the program or any part thereof, to be licensed under the terms of this license, with the exception of works that are explicitly exempted in writing by the copyright holder.

g) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the program or any part thereof, to be licensed under the terms of this license, with the exception of works that are explicitly exempted in writing by the copyright holder.

h) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the program or any part thereof, to be licensed under the terms of this license, with the exception of works that are explicitly exempted in writing by the copyright holder.

i) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the program or any part thereof, to be licensed under the terms of this license, with the exception of works that are explicitly exempted in writing by the copyright holder.

allowed only for noncommercial distribution and only if you received the program in object code or assembled form with such an offer, (b) accord with Subsection 3 above.)

The source code for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For an executable work, complete source code means all the source code for all modules it contains, plus any associated interface definition files, plus the scripts used to control compilation and installation of the executable. However, a system component or work that is normally distributed (in either source or binary form) with the major component constitutes a separate work, and the source code for a component does not need to be distributed with the source code for the major component unless the component is an integral part of the major component.

If distribution of executable or object code is made by referring to the name of a particular file, then referring to the name of the same file in the source code, even though third parties are not permitted to copy the source code with the executable code.

4. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, or distribute the Program except as expressly provided under this License. Any attempt otherwise to copy, modify, sublicense or distribute the Program is void, and will automatically terminate your rights under this License, which you may not continue to exercise for any part of the Program which remains unaltered under this License, unless you have received permission from the copyright holder to do so in writing.

5. You are not required to accept this License, unless you have received a copy of the program. You may choose to accept this License by modifying the program or by distributing the program or by making a copy for yourself. Therefore, by modifying or distributing the program for any work based on the program, you indicate your acceptance of this License to do so, and all its terms and conditions for copying, distribution or modification.

6. Each time you redistribute the Program (or any work based on the Program) in source code form, you must also make available to anyone receiving the program a copy, distribution or modification of the Program under the same terms and conditions as those that you received the program under. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

7. If, as a consequence of a court judgment or allegation of patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) you are unable to comply with the conditions of this License, you may nevertheless continue to use the program for your own personal use, but you must stop all distribution of the program. This license does not authorize you to do so in writing.

8. If you are unable to comply with the conditions of this License, you may nevertheless continue to use the program for your own personal use, but you must stop all distribution of the program. This license does not authorize you to do so in writing.

9. If you are unable to comply with the conditions of this License, you may nevertheless continue to use the program for your own personal use, but you must stop all distribution of the program. This license does not authorize you to do so in writing.

10. If you are unable to comply with the conditions of this License, you may nevertheless continue to use the program for your own personal use, but you must stop all distribution of the program. This license does not authorize you to do so in writing.

11. If you are unable to comply with the conditions of this License, you may nevertheless continue to use the program for your own personal use, but you must stop all distribution of the program. This license does not authorize you to do so in writing.

12. If you are unable to comply with the conditions of this License, you may nevertheless continue to use the program for your own personal use, but you must stop all distribution of the program. This license does not authorize you to do so in writing.

13. If you are unable to comply with the conditions of this License, you may nevertheless continue to use the program for your own personal use, but you must stop all distribution of the program. This license does not authorize you to do so in writing.

14. If you are unable to comply with the conditions of this License, you may nevertheless continue to use the program for your own personal use, but you must stop all distribution of the program. This license does not authorize you to do so in writing.

Version 2, June 1989
Copyright (C) 1989, 1991 Free Software Foundation, Inc.

Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute verbatim copies of this license without charge, subject to the following provisions:

Preamble
The licenses for most software are designed to make sure you have the freedom to share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public License is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and change any software you receive. It makes sure the software is free for all users. This license applies to most open source software, but not to software that is licensed under other licenses.

When you copy or distribute free software, you must make sure you preserve for the next user the same freedoms you received. For example, if you distribute copies of free software, you must also make sure you give the next user the right to copy and distribute copies of it, without charge. And you must also make sure that the next user has the right to see the source code of the program, and to change it.

For example, if you distribute copies of a program, whether you charge for it or not, you must make sure the next user has the right to copy and distribute copies of it, without charge. And you must also make sure that the next user has the right to see the source code of the program, and to change it.

We protect your rights with two steps: (1) copyright the software, and (2) offer you this license which gives you legal permission to copy, distribute and/or modify the software.

Also, for each author's protection and ours, we want to make certain that everyone understands that there is no warranty for this free software. We make this explicit in the text of the license, so that no problems introduced by others will reflect on the original author's reputation.

Finally, we want to make it clear that there is no warranty for this free software. We make this explicit in the text of the license, so that no problems introduced by others will reflect on the original author's reputation.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification are given in the following sections:

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

0. This license applies to any program or other work which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder stating it may be distributed under the terms of this General Public License. The Program, whether in source code or executable form, may be copied, distributed, and modified, under the terms of this license, without charge to the recipient, provided that you also meet all of these conditions:

1. You must cause the modified files to carry prominent notices stating that you changed the files and the date of any change.
2. You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in whole or in part contains or is derived from the Program or any part thereof, to be licensed under the same terms and conditions as the Program as you received it.

3. If you distribute a copy of the Program, you must also distribute a copy of the source code of the Program. You may charge a fee for the distribution of the source code, but you must make the source code available at no charge to anyone who provides you with the means for copying and distributing it. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may set your price for warranty protection to exchange for a fee.

4. If you distribute a copy of the Program, you must also distribute a copy of the source code of the Program. You may charge a fee for the distribution of the source code, but you must make the source code available at no charge to anyone who provides you with the means for copying and distributing it. You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may set your price for warranty protection to exchange for a fee.

Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute verbatim copies of this license document, but changing it is not allowed.

Preamble
The licenses for most software are designed to take away your freedom to share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public License is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and change free software. You are not permitted to restrict others who receive copies from you from doing so. The purpose of this license is to ensure that the free software you receive remains free software for everyone.

When you speak of free software, you are referring to freedom, not price. Our General Public Licenses are designed to make sure that you have the freedom to distribute copies of free software and charge for this service if you wish; that you receive source code or can get it if you wish it; that you can change the software or use pieces of it in new programs, and that you can distribute the results.

To protect your rights, we need to make restrictions that forbid others to restrict you and others who receive copies of the software from you. These restrictions translate to certain responsibilities for you if you distribute copies of the software, or if you modify it.
For example, if you distribute copies of such a program, whether gratis or for a fee, you must give the recipients all the rights that you have. You must make sure that they, too, receive or can get the source code. And you must show them how to access it.

We protect your rights with two steps: (1) copyright the software, and
(2) offer you this license which gives you legal permission to copy, distribute and/or modify the software.
Also, for each author's protection and ours, we need to make certain that our copyright notices for modified works are prominent; for this purpose we ask that you place a notice with each copy that you distribute stating in what way you have modified the work.
Finally, our free program is threatened constantly by software patents. We have tried to make our program patent free. In some cases this is not possible, but we want to avoid patents being used against our program. To protect this, we have made it clear that any patent must be licensed for everyone's free use or not licensed at all.

The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification follow.

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE
TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

0. This License applies to any program which may be distributed under the terms of this License. The license is for the program as a whole, not for individual parts. It applies to the program as a whole, not for individual parts. It applies to the program as a whole, not for individual parts. It applies to the program as a whole, not for individual parts.

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the Program's source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided that you preserve the copyright notices and notices of disclaimer of warranty that accompany the source code, you inform all recipients of the copying and distribution of each copy that you have made, and you include the file COPYING with each copy that you distribute.

2. You may alter the program and/or compile it to form an executable program, provided that you inform all recipients of the copy that you distribute that the program was altered, and you include the file COPYING with each copy that you distribute.

3. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, in any medium, provided that you preserve the copyright notices and notices of disclaimer of warranty that accompany the source code, you inform all recipients of the copy that you distribute that the program was copied, and you include the file COPYING with each copy that you distribute.

4. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, in any medium, provided that you preserve the copyright notices and notices of disclaimer of warranty that accompany the source code, you inform all recipients of the copy that you distribute that the program was copied, and you include the file COPYING with each copy that you distribute.

5. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code, in any medium, provided that you preserve the copyright notices and notices of disclaimer of warranty that accompany the source code, you inform all recipients of the copy that you distribute that the program was copied, and you include the file COPYING with each copy that you distribute.

6. You may copy and distribute copies of the Program's source code,

Like many other projects, ©-Mark has a tradition of including his license in the source code. This is not only done to make it easier for users to find the license, but also to ensure that it is not lost. The same licenses are referred to by a number of different names in the source code, with different abbreviations.
The following table lists the abbreviations used in the source code and the full name of the license they refer to.

SPDX-License-Identifier: GPL-2.0

Identify the license terms of all files in the source tree should be defined by such License-Identifiers, in case a file can contain more than one License-Identifier.

If a "SPDX-License-Identifier:" line references more than one license Identifier, then this means that the respective file is covered by the terms of either of these licenses, i. e. with

Version 2.1, February 1999

Copyright (c) 1991, 1999 Free Software Foundation, Inc.
51 Franklin St, Fifth Floor, Boston, MA 02110-1301 USA
Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute verbatim copies of this license document.

[This is the first released version of the Lesser GPL. It also contains text defining the license for the GNU Library Public License, version 2, hence the version number 2.1.]

Preamble

The licenses for most software are designed to take away your freedom to share and change it. By contrast, the GNU General Public License is designed to guarantee your freedom to share and change any software you receive.

This license, the GNU Lesser General Public License, applies to some software packages. It is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and change any software you receive under it. In addition, it allows you to combine it with other software not covered by the GNU General Public License, to create a new program, which you can then distribute under its own terms, and which you are free to change and to redistribute under the GNU Lesser General Public License.

When you share software, you are asked to do so under the terms of this license, which is the GNU Lesser General Public License, version 2.1.
You can do this by adding this text to the license for each file you distribute, and by adding this to the license for the whole program:
"This program is free software; it comes with ABSOLUTELY NO WARRANTY;
this is free software, and you are free to change it under the terms of the GNU Lesser General Public License, version 2.1."

Each time you redistribute this file, you must add this license, so that others will be able to share the program as well. You can do this by adding this text to the license for each file you distribute, and by adding this to the license for the whole program:
"This program is free software; it comes with ABSOLUTELY NO WARRANTY;
this is free software, and you are free to change it under the terms of the GNU Lesser General Public License, version 2.1."

For example, if you distribute copies of the library, you must also give the recipients all the rights that we give you. You must also make sure that they receive the same GNU Lesser General Public License as you did. If you have another library to distribute, you can combine it with the library, but you must also give the recipients all the rights that we give you. You must also make sure that they receive the same GNU Lesser General Public License as you did.

If you link a program with the library, you must also give the recipients all the rights that we give you. You must also make sure that they receive the same GNU Lesser General Public License as you did. If you have another library to distribute, you can combine it with the library, but you must also give the recipients all the rights that we give you. You must also make sure that they receive the same GNU Lesser General Public License as you did.

the scope of this license.

3. You may copy and distribute the Program (or a work based on it, under Section 7) in object code or executable form under the terms of Sections 1 and 2 above provided that you also do one of the following:

- a) Accompany it with the complete corresponding machine-readable source code, which must be distributed under the terms of Sections 1 and 2 above on a medium customarily used for software interchange; or
- b) Accompany it with a written offer, valid for at least three years, to give any third party, for a charge no more than your cost of physically performing source distribution, a complete machine-readable copy of the corresponding source code, to be distributed under the terms of Sections 1 and 2 above on a medium customarily used for software interchange; or
- c) Accompany it with the information you required to run the program in machine-readable form, such as a script, configuration file, or data file, as machine-readable form for the program to be distributed under the terms of Sections 1 and 2 above on a medium customarily used for software interchange. This information is conveyed only for software programs used for copying and editing files. Provided the program is subject to the usual and ordinary assumptions concerning the program for object files (as described in section 6), this license does not apply to the program as a whole.

The source code for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For an executable work, complete source code means the source code for all modules it contains, plus any associated interface definition files, plus the scripts used to control compilation and execution of the executable. However, as a special exception, the source code distributed need not include anything that is normally distributed (in either source or binary form) with the particular operating system on which the executable is normally run, unless the component itself accompanies the executable.

If distribution of executable or object code is made by offering access to copy the file from a network, then offering download facilities for the source code must be made through the same network. The source code must accompany the distribution of the source code. Where third parties are not permitted to copy the source code, your obligation is confined to those aspects of the program that are specifically noted in this license.

4. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, or distribute the Program as you are permitted to do, unless you understand and comply with the following provisions. These provisions are in addition to, and without derogating from, the provisions above. In that you act under this license, you accept that you will be bound by the terms and conditions for copying, distributing or modifying the Program or works based on it.

5. You are not required to accept this license, since you have not agreed to it. However, nothing else grants you permission to modify or distribute the Program or its derivatives unless you agree to do so. You may not combine code or materials that you have received under this license with code or materials that you have received under a license that prohibits you from doing so, or that otherwise would in any way restrict the use of the material in combination with this license. You must honor any applicable legal requirements for the distribution of the Program or works based on it.

6. Each time you redistribute the Program (or any work based on the Program) under the terms of this license, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

7. If, at any time, a court judgment or agreement of patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) requires you to stop distributing or making available any program, or any part of it, under this license, you may still distribute it and use it to support existing customer contracts. However, you must stop distributing or making available the program as soon as you are able to do so. This license does not affect your obligations under this license to any third parties. You may also make a separate arrangement for the distribution of the Program or works based on it, provided you honor the requirements of this license as to the material it carries. You may not offer separate terms of distribution for the Program or works based on it.

8. Each time you redistribute the Program (or any work based on the Program) under the terms of this license, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

9. If, at any time, a court judgment or agreement of patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement) requires you to stop distributing or making available any program, or any part of it, under this license, you may still distribute it and use it to support existing customer contracts. However, you must stop distributing or making available the program as soon as you are able to do so. This license does not affect your obligations under this license to any third parties. You may also make a separate arrangement for the distribution of the Program or works based on it, provided you honor the requirements of this license as to the material it carries. You may not offer separate terms of distribution for the Program or works based on it.

10. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

11. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

12. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

13. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

14. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

15. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

16. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

17. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

18. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

19. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

20. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

21. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

22. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. You may do so in any medium, even by means of electronic transmission, provided you make it possible for anyone receiving your copy to get a printed copy of this license as well. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties with this license.

23. If you modify or distribute the Program or any work based on the Program, you must also copy and distribute the text of this license along with the program. We protect your rights with two steps: (1) copyright the software, and (2) offer you this License which gives you legal protection to copy the software.

Also, for each author's protection and ours, we want to make certain you receive certain benefits from copying and distributing copies of Free software. If the software is modified by someone else and passed on, we want its recipient to know that what they have is not the original, so that any problems introduced by others will not reflect on the original author's reputation.

Finally, your free program is licensed under our General Public License, which means that it is licenced for everyone's free use and not licenced at all. The precise terms and conditions for copying, distribution and modification follow.

GNU GENERAL PUBLIC LICENSE

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR COPYING, DISTRIBUTION AND MODIFICATION

0. This License applies to any program or other work which contains a notice placed by the copyright holder stating it is licensed under the terms of this General Public License. The "Program" below refers to any such program or work, and a "work based on the Program" is any work containing the Program or a portion of it, regardless of what separate title is placed on the work and regardless of whether the title "modification" is included on the work in lieu of "modification". Each license is addressed to "you", whoever you happen to be.

1. You may copy and distribute verbatim copies of the Program's source code as you receive it, in any medium, provided that you conspicuously and appropriately publish on each copy an appropriate copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty; you must also retain all the notices that refer to this License and to the absence of any warranty; and you must keep any one of these conditions.

You may charge a fee for the physical act of transferring a copy, and you may at your option offer warranty protection in addition to the warranty.

2. You may modify your copy or copies of the Program or any portion thereof to suit your local requirements, provided that you publish the modifications you make under the terms of section 1 above, provided that you also make all of these conditions:

- a) The modified files must carry prominent notices stating that you changed the files and the date of any change.
- b) You must cause any work that you distribute or publish, that in part bears the name of the author, to be licensed under the same license that applies to the work as a whole.
- c) If the modified program normally reads commands interactively when run, you must cause it, when it starts running, to print or display an announcement including an appropriate copyright notice and a warning that the program is distributed under GPL. The announcement must also state that the program is a modified version of the program, and must carry the same copyright notice and disclaimer of warranty as the original program. You must cause the program to be distributed under the same license that applies to the program. You may set the program to cause it to be distributed under the same license that applies to the program, but you must cause it to be distributed under the same license that applies to the program.

These requirements apply to the modified work as a whole. If identifiable sections of that work are derived from Free Software, you must indicate the sections that are derived from Free Software, and you must release those sections under the same license that applies to the work as a whole. You may also distribute the work as part of a larger work, but the work as a whole must be licensed under the same license that applies to the work as a whole. You may also distribute the work as part of a larger work, but the work as a whole must be licensed under the same license that applies to the work as a whole.

3. You may copy and distribute the Program (or a work based on it), under section 2, in object code or executable form under the terms of section 1, provided that you also do one of the following:

- a) Accompany it with the complete corresponding machine-readable source code, which must be distributed under the same license that applies to the source code.
- b) Accompany it with a written offer, valid for at least three years, to provide the complete corresponding machine-readable source code, which must be distributed under the same license that applies to the source code, to any individual who is entitled to see these documents for a charge no more than the cost of copying.
- c) Accompany it with the information you received as to the offer to distribute the complete corresponding machine-readable source code, which must be distributed under the same license that applies to the source code, in a form which will allow for easy retrieval of the complete corresponding machine-readable source code, which must be distributed under the same license that applies to the source code, by any individual who is entitled to see these documents for a charge no more than the cost of copying.

The source code for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For an executable work, complete source code means all the source code for all modules it contains, plus any associated interface definition files, plus the scripts used to control compilation and execution of the executable. However, as a special exception, the source code distributed need not include anything that is normally distributed (in accordance with any document accompanying the source code) with the executable in order to run, unless the operating system on which the executable runs, unless the component is itself a component of the executable.

4. The source code for a work means the preferred form of the work for making modifications to it. For an executable work, complete source code means all the source code for all modules it contains, plus any associated interface definition files, plus the scripts used to control compilation and execution of the executable. However, as a special exception, the source code distributed need not include anything that is normally distributed (in accordance with any document accompanying the source code) with the executable in order to run, unless the operating system on which the executable runs, unless the component is itself a component of the executable.

5. You may not copy, modify, sublicense, or distribute the Program except as expressly provided under this License. Any attempt otherwise to copy, modify, sublicense, or distribute the Program is void, and will automatically terminate your rights under this License. However, parties who receive the Program from you, you agree to act in good faith in order to not terminate their rights under this License. This license will not terminate your rights if you promptly receive written notice from the copyright holder or someone authorized to act on their behalf that you have violated the terms of this license. This license will not terminate your rights if you promptly receive written notice from the copyright holder or someone authorized to act on their behalf that you have violated the terms of this license.

6. Each time you redistribute the Program (or any work based on the Program), the recipient automatically receives the license for the Program as if they had received the Program directly from the copyright holder. You may not impose any further restrictions on the recipients' exercise of the rights granted herein. You are not responsible for enforcing compliance by third parties to this License.

7. If, as a consequence of a court judgment or allegation of patent infringement or for any other reason (not limited to patent infringement), you are unable to comply with the conditions of section 2, you may still comply with the conditions of section 2 by offering to provide a written offer, valid for at least three years, to provide the complete corresponding machine-readable source code, which must be distributed under the same license that applies to the source code, to any individual who is entitled to see these documents for a charge no more than the cost of copying.

8. If the distribution and/or use of the Program is restricted in certain countries either by patents or by governmental regulations, the distribution in or use of the Program in any such country is prohibited. In those countries where governmental regulations or patents restrict the distribution and/or use of the Program, you may not distribute the Program in or use the Program in any such country.

9. The Free Software Foundation may publish revised and/or new versions of the General Public License from time to time. Such new versions will be similar in spirit to the present version, but may differ in detail to address new problems or concerns.

Each version is given a distinguishing version number. If the Program specifies a version number of this License which applies to it and you have received the Program in a form which carries this version number, you must distribute the Program only under the terms of that version of the License. If the Program does not specify a version number of this License, you may choose any version of the License under the terms of the License.

10. If you wish to incorporate parts of the Program into other free programs, you may do so under section 2, provided you follow the conditions of section 2. This license applies to all copies of the Program that you distribute. For software which is copyrighted by the copyright holder, you must request permission from the copyright holder to use the Program in a way that would not be permitted by the copyright holder.

NO WARRANTY

11. BECAUSE THE PROGRAM IS LICENSED FREE OF CHARGE, THERE IS NO WARRANTY FOR THE PROGRAM, TO THE EXTENT PERMITTED BY APPLICABLE LAW. EXCEPT WHEN OTHERWISE STATED IN WRITING, THE COPYRIGHT HOLDERS AND/OR OTHER PARTIES PROVIDE THE PROGRAM "AS IS" WITHOUT WARRANTY OF ANY KIND, EITHER EXPRESSED OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING, BUT NOT LIMITED TO, THE IMPLIED WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY AND FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. THE ENTIRE RISK AS TO THE QUALITY AND PERFORMANCE OF THE PROGRAM IS WITH YOU. SHOULD THE PROGRAM PROVE DEFECTIVE, YOU ASSUME THE COST OF ALL NECESSARY SERVICING, REPAIR OR CORRECTION.

12. IN NO EVENT SHALL THE COPYRIGHT HOLDERS OR OTHER PARTIES BE LIABLE FOR DAMAGES OF ANY KIND, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO, GENERAL, SPECIAL, INCIDENTAL OR CONSEQUENTIAL DAMAGES ARISING OUT OF THE USE OR THE INABILITY TO USE THE PROGRAM, EVEN IF YOU HAVE BEEN ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGES.

HOW TO USE AND CONTACTING

How to Apply These Terms to Your New Programs

If you develop a new program, and you want it to be of the greatest benefit to the public, the best way to achieve this is to make it free software which everyone can redistribute and change under the same terms.

To do so, attach the following notices to the program. It is safest to attach them to the start of each source file to most certainly ensure they are carried over with any copy of the program. Each file should have at least the "copyright" line and a pointer to where the full notice is found.

Copyright (C) _____ Name of author

This program is free software; you can redistribute it and/or modify it under the terms of the GNU General Public License as published by the Free Software Foundation; either version 2 of the License, or (at your option) any later version.

This program is distributed in the hope that it will be useful, WITHOUT ANY WARRANTY; without even the implied warranty of MERCHANTABILITY or FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE. See the GNU General Public License for more details.

You should have received a copy of the GNU General Public License along with this program; if not, write to the Free Software Foundation, Inc., 51 Franklin Street, Boston, MA 02110-1301 USA

Also add information on how to contact the author and how to send mail. If the program is interactive, make it output a short notice like this when it starts in an interactive mode:

Copyright (C) _____ Name of author
This program comes with ABSOLUTELY NO WARRANTY; for details type `show w'.
This is free software; you can redistribute it and/or modify it under the terms of the GNU General Public License; see the file COPYING.

The hypothetical commands `show w' and `show c' should show the appropriate parts of the General Public License. The command `show c' should show the text of the GPL license and the text of the instructions for copying and distributing the program. The command `show w' should show the text of the GPL license and the text of the instructions for copying and distributing the program.

You should also get your employer (if you work as a programmer) or your school, if any, to make a "copyright disclaimer" for the program, if necessary. Here is a sample; alter the names:

Yoyodyne, Inc. hereby disclaims all copyright interest in the program "Gnomex" (which makes passes at compilers) written by James Hacker.

Copyright (C) 1989, 1990 Free Software Foundation, Inc.

This General Public License does not permit incorporating your program into proprietary programs. If your program is a subprogram of a proprietary program, you must use the GNU General Public License to distribute that subprogram. If this is what you want to do, use the GNU Library General Public License instead of this License.

lib 1.2.11 is a general purpose data compression library. All the code is in the file lib 1.2.11.c. The main function is in the file lib 1.2.11.c. The main function is in the file lib 1.2.11.c.

available in Python 3.3 and later versions, see <http://docs.python.org/library/itertools.html>.

 An experimental package to read and write files in .rip format, written on top of itlib by Dallas Holcomb holcomb.com, is available at the contrib/ directory of itlib.

Notes for some targets:

- For Windows 9x versions, please see win32ole_rip.txt
- For OS/2 EBC, software must be compiled without any optimization. With 2.0, one library test fails. The test works on 32 bit mode with the -x2 compiler flag. The compiler bug has been reported to IBM.
- itlib doesn't work with gcc 2.4.3 on a DEC 386/386LC under OS/2 2.1 it works when compiled with cc.
- On Digital Unix 4.0B (formerly OS/1 on AlphaServer), the cc option -xat is necessary to get glibtest working correctly. This is done by configure.
- itlib doesn't work on HP-UX 8.05 with some versions of libc/4c. It works with other compilers. Use "make test" to check your compiler.
- glibtest is not supported on IRIX64 or BEOS.
- For PALMte, see <http://palmtlib.sourceforge.net/>

Acknowledgments:
 The diffless format used by itlib was defined by Phil Karr. The diffless and .rip test fixtures were created by Bill "Pawel" Pawel. Thanks to all the people who reported problems and suggested various improvements on itlib, they are the backbone to cite here.
